REPORTED DEATH OF AMUNDSEN DENIED; SEARCH CONTINUES

Seven Nations Are Joined In Effort To Find Explorer

OSLO, NORWAY, July 3.—With seven nations, fourteen ships and more than a score of planes now cooperating in the search for him, the disappearance of Capt. Roald Amundsen, who with his five companions left Tromsø, Norway, in a French seaplane on June 18 to search for General Nobile was still shrouded in mystery today.

Two British Moth planes are expected to arrive here soon to join the searching expeditions. Upon their arrival the number of planes engaged in the rescue work will total twenty-two.

In denying the report circulated yesterday that Amundsen's body had been found, relief officials here stated that none of the ships now scouring the Arctic seas had reported finding any trace of the noted explorer or his plane.

LONDON, July 3.—The Soviet ice-breaker Krassin has succeeded in reaching the five survivors of the lost dirigible Italia's crew and the Swedish aviator Lundborg, a dispatch from Moscow to the Copenhagen newspaper Sydsvenski Dagbladet transmitted here by the Exchange Telegraph Company stated today.

The dispatch, which was fragmentary, gave no details and failed to state whether or not the ice-breaker had succeeded in taking the marooned men aboard. There was no confirmation from any other source.

HOOVER WORKING ON BUDGET OF BUREAU

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Herbert Hoover deserted politics momentarily today to draw up the commerce department's new budget.

He was assisted by Walter F. Brown, of Toledo, assistant commerce secretary, who, according to persistent reports, will succeed Hoover in the cabinet.

Hoover's acceptance speech has been completed in rough draft. He still wants to consult with a number of political advisers before he completes it.

The Republican national headquarters in the Burr building, from which the Hoover-Curtis campaign will be conducted, are the most elaborate ever set up for a presidential campaign. There are forty rooms and offices which occupy the entire fourth floor. Work of moving into the new offices is practically completed.

CONNABLES DONATE TO FUND

The fund being raised by the Greene County Home-Coming Association to finance erection of a community house in Shawnee Park to be available for use during the 1928 Greene County Home-Coming, has been increased to $2,000 with announcement of a gift of $1,000 by Frank L. Connable, wealthy former Xenian.

The ex-Xenian also made known in a telegram received this week by T. H. Zell, chairman of the Home-Coming Executive Committee, that his mother, Mrs. John Connable, also wishes to subscribe another $1,000 toward the auditorium should the fund be incomplete.

Recently Home-Coming officials sent telegrams to a number of wealthy former Xenians soliciting $1,000 donations from each for the auditorium.

Mr. Connable is the second former resident to make a gift of this nature.

His telegram, sent from Saranac Inn, Saranac Lake, N. Y., was as follows: "Wire forwarded, just reached me here. I shall be delighted to be one of ten subscribers and commend both the plan and the idea. Mother, who is spending the season here, will likewise be glad to subscribe should your list of ten be incomplete. We both wish you success and may move out to enjoy the occasion."

Mr. Connable is a member of one of the most prominent of the old Xenia families and was formerly vice-president of the DuPont Powder Co., Wilmington, Del.

Before moving away from Xenia twenty-five or thirty years ago, he was a member of the firm of Connable-Harper and Co., which manufactured electrical supplies in a plant on the site of what is now The Eavey Co., wholesale grocers, at Detroit and Third Sts.

The plant handled electrical storage batteries for surgical instruments. Harper invented a device by which light bulbs were attached to flexible surgical instruments, used by surgeons today.

Connable's father, John Connable was in the pork packing business in Xenia with J. H. Harline, Alpha, and Eli Miller. He later became connected with the Chattanooga Powder Co., Chattanooga, Tenn., which was afterward sold to or combined with the DuPont Powder Co.

Mr. Frank Connable returns to Xenia every few years for a visit to renew old friendships. James M. Hopkins, Chicago was the first to contribute to the fund, which has now reached $3,000.

VON HINDENBURG ATTACKED

May Succeed Work

William V. Hodges, above, of Denver, is mentioned to succeed Dr. Hubert Work, as secretary of the interior. Dr. Work resigns his post to devote all his time to his duties as chairman of the Republican national committee.

SCIENCE UNABLE TO SOLVE MYSTERY OF LIGHT ORGANISMS

Store Energy From Sun's Rays That Is Later Released

BERKELEY, Cal., July 3.—Tiny organisms of the sea which store up the sun's radiant energy by day and release it by night, causing brilliant displays of luminescence, comprise one of the mysteries of life which science has been unable to solve.

When man understands the mechanism whereby this organism, the dinoflagellate, is enabled to store up the sun's energy, he will open new domains to his control of nature.

Dr. Charles A. Kofoid, chairman of the zoology department of the University of California, voiced these opinions today. "Two theories for the light produced by the sea animals were advanced by Dr. Kofoid.

The actual light is due to the interaction of secretions of gland cells in the luminous organs which interact in the presence of water and oxygen to produce light, or it may be caused, he said, by the secretions of minute bacteria which grow and multiply in some organ of the host.

When released, this light is without appreciable heat.

The tiny organisms which bring about these phenomena of the sea are continually in need of new energy," Dr. Kofoid said.

"Their locomotive powers tend to exhaust the reserves of food built up during solar irradiation. So with true protistan parsimony, they switch on their lights at sundown and run them till dawn. It has been suggested Dr. Kofoid said, that the light was used to lure other organisms for food, as a warning to enemies, as a mating signal or as a lantern to guide movements.

ONE KILLED, FORTY HURT IN COLLISION

NEW YORK, July 3.—Julius Gould, 40, a butcher, is dead and forty other persons are suffering today from injuries sustained when two trolley cars collided in Brooklyn.

One car leaped through a switch and shot around a corner at full speed into the second trolley. Women and children were pulled from the wreckage by scores of rescuers. Martin Joyce, one of the motormen was seriously injured. He was arrested.

FIVE KILLED BY WIND STORMS SWEEPING NORTHWEST STATES

MINNEAPOLIS, July 3.—Five persons were killed and property damage that will run over $1,000,000 was caused by wind storms of cyclonic proportions that swept over four northwest states early Monday, a checkup revealed today.

Most of the damage was to farming communities where crops were laid low by wind and hail.

The storms struck in Minnesota, Wisconsin, North and South Dakota. The velocity of the wind was estimated in excess of 70 miles an hour. Rain, lightning and thunder accompanied the wind.

Lightning was responsible for two of the five persons killed, while the other three deaths resulted from the collapse of buildings.

SMITH LEADERS CONSIDERING APPEALS FOR MORE ADDRESSES

Will Speak Twice Wednesday; Turns Down Klan Bid.

NEW YORK, July 3.—Governor Smith and his advisers today were considering appeals from all parts of the country for an extension of his campaign schedule, which at present lists only twelve speeches, to be delivered in important cities representing all sections of the union.

"Many of his admirers feel that a more intensive campaign, with numerous public appearances, would be of invaluable aid in spreading knowledge of the Smith personality. Such a program, they say, would greatly increase the chances for a Democratic victory.

They are expecting also that the governor's acceptance speech to be made in August when he is formally notified of his nomination for president, will win over many doubtful drys.

"I will make my position perfectly clear in my speech of acceptance," Governor Smith said in his suite at the Billmore, refusing further comment on the prohibition question.

Today was to be another day of rest for him, save for conferences with his personal advisors and some of the Democratic leaders.

Tomorrow, however, the governor makes two public appearances. In old Tammany Hall, scene of so many important events in municipal history, he will make an address at the hundred and thirty-ninth annual independence day celebration of the organization.

This is the last Fourth of July ceremony to be held there before the old quarters are abandoned.

The governor will speak on patriotism and liberty, avoiding campaign matters.

These two engagements were referred to by the governor when he declined to address the Jamaica Ku Klux Klan.

REPORT MICHELSON IS SERIOUSLY ILL

CHICAGO, July 3.—Professor Albert A. Michelson, famous physicist of the University of Chicago, is seriously ill at the university hospital. It was reported today.

Dr. Michelson is seventy-five years old and despite his age is a strenuous athlete. Friends fear that he may have overtaxed his strength during a recent tennis match.

He collapsed late yesterday. He is reported to be suffering from anemia and stomach trouble.

The physicist is most noted for his experiments regarding the transmission of light which tend to support the Einstein theory.

HEAT WAVE ABATES; HIGH TEMPERATURE HITS WHEAT AREAS

Farmers Pray For Continued Warm Weather

KANSAS CITY, July 3.—Slight abatement was promised today from the midwest's scorching heat wave which has set new season records on two consecutive days.

Yesterday's 93 temperature, with the oppressively high humidity, topped the season's high mark which had been reached Sunday.

While farmers of the surrounding wheat belt are watching their ripening grain and praying for the sun to continue to shine hotly, the average Kansas Citian took comfort from the promise of "generally fair and a few degrees cooler," the local forecast for today.

CHICAGO, July 3.—Temporary relief from Chicago's first real heat wave of the summer came this morning in the form of cooling showers. But a hot sun broke through the clouds and shot the mercury up, indicating the torrid wave has not yet burned itself out.

Yesterday's maximum temperature was only 87.

CATCH PRISONER

DETROIT, Mich., July 3.—Harry Louis, alias Arthur Hirsch, 26, is held today as an escaped prisoner from Mansfield, O.

Louis was sent up from Cleveland, O., for robbery, while armed and escaped from the penitentiary at Mansfield in 1925. He came to Detroit some time ago.

WILL GREET CURTIS
PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 3.—Thousands of citizens of Rhode Island and nearby Massachusetts towns will be on hand for a personal greeting to Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas, Republican vice presidential nominee at a reception to be given in his honor at the Ledgemont County Club.

Representatives of the company now are in Germany investigating the possibility of a German-made flying boat meeting the necessary requirements for such service, Schantz declared.

Present plans call for each boat to carry a crew of four—pilot, navigator, mechanic and radio operator—in addition to the twenty-six passengers, it was said. The hull of each boat would be constructed of metal, with a double bottom and air-tight compartments,

REICHSTAG DEPUTY SAYS ELECTION DUG MONARCHISM GRAVE

Magazine Article Creates Sensation In Berlin

BERLIN, July 3.—A political sensation was caused in Germany today by an article written for a nationalist magazine by Nationalist Reichstag Deputy Walter Lambach, who declared that the election of Field Marshal Von Hindenburg as president of the German Republic "dug the grave for German Monarchism."

The monarchist section of the population who voted for Von Hindenburg, "helped dig this grave," the writer said. He added:

"Kings and Kaisers are no longer hallowed and venerable persons and institutions to our growing youth and future voters. To our growing youth they have become figures fit only for the stage and the film."

The sensation was heightened by the fact that restoration of the monarchy is the first principle of the nationalist party.

Lambach demands that the nationalists abandon their monarchist principles and accept conservative republicanism into membership. "Kreuzzeitung," the official organ of Count Westarp, leader of the Nationalist party, regrets that the fundamental principles of the party are being made an issue, "because the party has more pressing cares at this moment."

Herr Lambach gave the following explanation of the change on the part of the German people.

"The shadow of the Kaiser and King rising up behind the president would have overshadowed everything else, but it no longer overshadows a Hindenburg. On the contrary, William, II, disappeared behind the tall, plump old gentleman who now represents the Reich. A functionary and a placeholder was to be elected, but a carrier of his own greatness became president. Before his greatness, the nimbus of the Hohenzollerns collapsed. How many millions of true monarchists have been turned into embittered republicans by the second marriage of the Kaiser and the marriage scandals in his family was shown at the national referendum on the proposed confiscation of the royal properties and in the last Reichstag election."

NEWPORT, R. I., July 3.—Funeral arrangements were being made today for Lieutenant Commander Thaddeus Nelson Alford, native of Texas, and Lieutenant Commander William Butler Jr., who plunged to their death when their seaplane while looping went into a tail spin and crashed into Narragansett Bay.

Alford was killed instantly but Butler lived a short while after being taken from the wrecked plane.

Alford was a member of the United States Navy and was on duty at the time of the crash.

DEATH CLAIMS STAGE QUARTET

ROBERT MANTELL

LEO DITRICHSTEIN

During recent weeks death has come to four men, identified with the development of the theater in the United States. Holbrook Blinn, one of the most popular of actors, died from injuries received in falling from his horse; Leo Ditrichstein, dramatist-actor, passed away in Vienna; Robert Mantell, Shakespearean artist, succumbed after an illness, and Avery Hopwood, author of many bedroom farces, youngest of the four, was drowned while bathing at Nice, France.

HE WAS IN SAME BOAT
WASHINGTON, July 3.—The sympathetic attitude of a juror in the circuit court here during trial of an alimony suit toward the defendant because of similar marital difficulties, caused Justice Frederick L. Siddons to grant a new trial to Mrs. Lillian B. Coles, of Katonah, N. Y., in her suit against her former husband, Nathaniel C. Halstead, of this city, for $9,060 back alimony.

In the jury room at the close of the trial, according to affidavits filed by the woman's attorney, Richardson A. Baker, foreman, recited difficulties he had had with his wife, Mrs. Mae Kamm Baker, concerning alimony payments. The rest of the jury was so affected, Mrs. Coles' attorney set forth in his motion, that it rendered a verdict adverse to the plaintiff.

Mrs. Cole had obtained her divorce in New York courts and filed suit for back alimony here, where her former husband makes his home.

Attorney Marcus Shoup, retained by the theater owners as defense counsel, went to Cleveland, O., Tuesday on business and it was because of his inability to be in the city that hearings originally scheduled for Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock were postponed.

Although no plans for fighting the case have been announced, it is understood the theater owners plan to plead not guilty. The arrests are looked upon as a means of deciding in the courts whether Sunday picture shows will be allowed in Xenia in the future.

Seeking to close the two movie houses on Sunday, the affidavits against Hibbert and Binder were filed Monday morning, as a result of action of both theater men in keeping their houses open last Sunday for the first time.

Although the affidavits were signed by Patrolman Fred Jones, the Xenia Ministerial Association and the W. C. T. U., are behind the action to prohibit Sunday shows.

Representing the Christian citizenship department of the W. C. T. U., Mrs. Lester Oglesbee and Mrs. M. R. Snodgrass appeared in court with City Solicitor J. A. Finney, who prepared the affidavits, their request and is required by his official position as city attorney to prosecute the case. It was reported incorrectly Monday that Mrs. W. J. Oglesbee was one of the W. C. T. U. representatives.

OFFICIALS UNABLE TO REPORT WINNER UNTIL ALL LANDED

French Balloonists In North Carolina Have Hopes

DETROIT, July 3.—Officials of the James Gordon Bennett international balloon race, today expect to receive a telegram from Ferdinand Eimermacher, pilot of the Munster, German entry and the only one of the twelve contestants not yet reported down.

Carl S. Betts, of the board of commerce, who has been checking the race, believes that the Munster came to earth about 6 p. m. last night but that Eimermacher landed too far from a telegraph office in a small inland village to send a telegram before the office closed for the night.

"I will not make any hazard as to the winner of the race," Betts said, "but I am almost certain that the Munster is on the ground now. The bags in the race were called 50-hour balloons and their gas and ballast would be exhausted about 6 p. m. Monday night."

Race officials do not believe that it is possible for the Munster to have reached Florida but that Eimermacher may have gone as far south as Georgia. Of the eleven bags already reported only one, the B I a n c h a r d, French entry, landed in North Carolina. The others came to earth in Virginia and West Virginia.

The Blanchard, piloted by Charles Dolfus with Georges Gormier as aide, landed at Walnut Cove, N. C., about eighteen miles north of Winston-Salem, N. C. The balloon, settled in a millpond but neither pilot, aide nor the bag were injured. Dolfus estimates his distance as 475 and believes that the first honors in the race will go to him.

The United States hope of retaining the cup was lost when the army bag, piloted by Capt. W. E. Kepner, landed near Redbridge, Va., at noon yesterday. Kepner was the winner of the national elimination race from Pittsburgh, May 30.

WALNUT COVE, N. C., July 3.—Hopeful that they have won the Gordon Bennett international balloon race, Charles Dolfus, pilot and Georges Gormier, aide, of the French entry Blanchard, prepared today to leave this little hamlet.

The balloonists landed here yesterday after taking off from Detroit.

The balloonists were confident that they had won the race, although the German bag, Munster, has not yet reported, according to information here.

SURVEYOR RECOMMENDS THAT REQUEST FOR ROAD BE DENIED

A recommendation that County Commissioners refuse to grant a petition requesting the construction of a new thoroughfare through the village of Osborn, is made by County Surveyor W. J. Davis, in a report of a survey and plat made filed with the board.

Surveyor Davis, while declaring that in his opinion the road petition on file should not be granted, also suggested certain changes which in his judgment should be made in the proposed improvement in the event Commissioners decide to grant the petition.

He advises that the road width should be sixty feet and that additional right-of-way should be obtained from the proposed beginning of the thoroughfare for a distance of about 500 feet or so in order to provide for an overhead crossing, inasmuch as he believes a grade crossing on the road would be dangerous.

If his suggestion is adopted, Surveyor Davis also advises Commissioners that state highway officials and railroads should be consulted.

Recently a petition containing the signatures of 633 residents of Osborn and Fairfield was filed with Commissioners, protesting against the proposed road. No action on either the road petition or the protests has been taken.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY TO LIQUOR CHARGE

Price Cummings pleaded not guilty to possessing liquor before Judge S. C. Wright in Probate Court Tuesday. His hearing is set for July 6 at 9 a. m.

Cummings was arrested Tuesday by Deputy Sheriff George Sugden as a result of a raid conducted on his residence on the Bellbrook Pike last Saturday afternoon by Sheriff Ohmer Tate and his deputies.

A quantity of alleged liquor was found, the mixture consisting of water, corn whiskey and ammonia, which was turned over to Professor Adams, Antioch College chemist for analysis. The analysis showed the required percentage of alcohol to furnish grounds for the filing of an affidavit against Cummings, Sheriff Tate said.

ABANDONED SCHOOL BUILDING IS SOLD

The Opportunity School building on E. Church St., opposite the new Central High School, is being dismantled by Jeffries and Fudge, local contractors, under a contract with the City Board of Education.

JUNE BOASTED OF THREE CLEAR DAYS

Xenians thankful for small favors may sing the praises of the lamented month of June, during which there were three clear days.

According to the best calendars there are thirty days in June, and the monthly weather summary of W. W. Neffert, Dayton meteorologist, shows that twenty-seven of these were cloudy, partly cloudy or rainy.

The greatest precipitation occurred June 5, when it rained 1.18 inches worth while the month itself piled up a total of 7.13 inches of rainfall. The normal for June is 2.9 inches showing an excess rainfall of 3.34 inches during June of this year.

In the meantime the temperature ranged from 43 degrees June 3 to 85 degrees June 19 for an average of 65.8 degrees for the month. Normal temperature for the month is 71.4 degrees and temperature deficiency in June makes an accumulated temperature deficiency of 31.8 degrees since January 1.

Besides the three clear days, there were fourteen partly cloudy, thirteen cloudy and twenty-one on which .01 or more inches of precipitation occurred. There were 176.2 hours of actual sunshine out of a possible 448.9 for a percentage of 39. Solar halos occurred June 24, lunar halos June 29 and thunderstorms on June 1, 5, 17, 18, 19, 22 and 24. And this was June.

John F. Loyd, local contractor, had the contract for erecting the building, which is constructed of brick and concrete.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

LENDING TO GOD

He that hath pity upon the poor lendeth unto the Lord; and that which he hath given will he pay him again.—Prov. 19:17.

HOOVER AND SMITH

Al Smith and Herbert Hoover, outside of blue eyes, and a mutual fondness for fishing, differ on every count. In background, education, food tastes, manners and amusements their records are diametrically opposed.

Intimate sidelights on the conflicting tastes of the two leading presidential candidates are revealed by Frazier Hunt, political expert.

"Governor Smith is an old-fashioned gentleman, who still wears suspenders and long underwear, winter and summer, while Hoover sticks to B. V. D.'s and a belt," he reports, indicating the far-reaching differences between the two popular figures.

Governor Smith is a "natty dresser" who goes in for complete ensembles on all occasions. When he comes out in brown he is all brown from his derby to his shoes. He never wears a dress suit if he can help it. Hoover, for more than twenty-five years, has worn only double-breasted blue suits and dresses for dinner every night except Sunday.

The Governor is noted for his boisterously seasoned, rip-roaring stories. Even his enemies admit freely that as a raconteur he is in a class by himself. Hoover, on the other hand, is noted for brilliant talk of people and events in far-flung corners of the earth. "He talks as Kipling writes," his friends say.

Smith reads few books and depends largely upon personal contacts for his knowledge of men and affairs. Hoover reads constantly with a preference for philosophy and detective stories. Smith's personal fortune is estimated at $150,000; Hoover is reputed to be a millionaire.

"They were both poor boys, born within eighteen months of each other but a thousand miles apart" comments a writer in McClure's. "Governor Smith first saw light in an Irish-Catholic tenement district of East Side New York; Hoover's family lived in a Quaker settlement in Iowa. While 'Al' earned his F. F. M. degree in the Fulton Fish Market and learned the ways of Tammany hall, Hoover worked his way through Leeland Stanford and prepared for his spectacular career as an international engineer."

During their thirties, Smith began his long term of service as New York State Assemblyman while Hoover made a reputation and a million dollars as one of the world's ablest mining engineers. During their early forties, Hoover was called the 'savior' of Belgium and Smith was leader of the Democratic minority in the lower house of the New York State Legislature. Now, in the fifties, Hoover, man of the world, has turned politician; and Smith, politician, has turned more man of the world.

Anyway it's a safe prediction that the next President of the United States will be a self-made man.

INTEREST IN NEWS

Mr. Duncan-Clark, of the editorial staff of the Chicago Post, recently remarked in an address to a Baptist convention, that public opinion seems to have a cynical contempt for the spiritual values of life, and that people are supposed to be more interested in news of a destructive character, rather than in constructive events that are less dramatic. He thought that newspaper writers should show the interest value of constructive news.

In cities like this the people do not demand that their newspapers be full of crime and scandal. They are interested in the constructive news of which this editor speaks, and want to know what is being done to make better communities. They want to know about the things that build up the community, quite as much as about the things that destroy it.

A lot of people, who formerly lost money in boom town speculation, are now getting ready to lose some more money in stocks.

The Way of the World

TWELVE GREAT

At least once a year somebody of note tries to pick the ten or twelve greatest living persons in the world. And of course nobody can really do that. Ten distinguished scholars recently voted on the "great twelve" and here are their selections: Edison, Mussolini, Einstein, Shaw, Ford, Paderewski, Kipling, Mme. Curie, Clemenceau, Jane Addams, Orville Wright, Marconi.

What do you think?

If the truth could only be brought to light there are men and women in obscurity who are just as great.

POSSIBILITIES

Every human soul has possibilities of greatness. There is a certain creative force in every man and woman. It comes from the great source of power by which the universe and all the universes were created. The tragedy is the neglect of the cultivation of these seeds of greatness.

HE KNOWS

Alfred P. Sloan, head of the General Motors, takes occasion to say that he finds newspaper advertising "particularly helpful from the standpoint of direct sales appeal."

Mr. Sloan knows that his great business has been built largely by the power of advertising—intelligent and thoughtful advertising. It is not strange that this leader among business men, looking over the field and looking over results, finds newspaper advertising reaches the spot. More and more the heads of large business concerns have come to this conclusion.

The Diary of a New Yorker

By CLARK KINNAIRD

NEW YORK, July 3. — A handsome Russian, who in czarist days was a military attaché at embassies of his country in European capitals, is supporting his social care in New York as a professional blood giver. He gets $100 a quart for his life fluid.

At a smart affair the other evening he received a phone call and rushed to his hostess with apologies. "A very dear friend has been taken to the hospital. He is used to making such excuses, for he is subject to call at any time, and in the fashionable circle in which he moves, with hopes of obtaining a rich wife, there is the impression he is an adviser on Russian affairs to a Wall Street concern."

He appeared at the hospital in evening attire and went through the operation nonchalantly. When it was over, the doctor was examining him, the Russian casually asked the patient's name. He likes to keep a record of those whose blood is mixed with his. Not always, however, do hospitals supply this information.

"The patient is Miss," said the doctor, giving a name in the Social Register.

The blood-giver was startled.

"Good lord! I spent half of last week's blood money for orchids for her."

After refusing to accept his usual blood-giving fee, the Russian exacted a promise from the physician that the young woman would never learn his name.

"Your blood saved her life," the doctor told him.

"I'd die of shame if she knew I did this for a living," was the response.

The doctor who told me this didn't think it was suitable for publication, "because nobody will believe it." But truth is stranger than fiction.

Felix Sheopolish, most celebrated cat in New York, is dead. Ironically, his passing went unchronicled in the metropolitan newspapers.

For 10 years Felix was master of Zoe Beckley's house in West Tenth street. Miss Beckley, noted writer, is hostess of a salon that at one time or another attracts all the celebrities. Felix discovered that not only may a cat look at a queen, but a cat may sit in a queen's lap. He knew Queen Marie of Rumania, whom Zoe Beckley visited in Bucharest and collaborated with in the preparation of stories.

When a newcomer appeared at the Buckley salon Felix either displayed his disapproval by leaving the room or by immediately recognizing the visitor as a comrade and climbing the newcomer's leg to the lap for a snooze. He was constant in his likes and dislikes. He never made up with persons he ignored on a first meeting.

The scion of a noted family sent his finance, sailing for Europe, a bon voyage basket that cost $1,000. It contained, besides the usual candy, fruit and books, a fluffy white poodle tied with silk ribbons and nestling in silks and furs. The basket, itself a work of art, was trimmed with antique embroidery and lace.

Ship specializing in bon voyage gifts, puts up a box of candies priced at $100 and sells many of them.

Kellygrams

By FRED C. KELLY

Making Dishonesty Difficult

The simplest way to make a man honest is to make it impracticable for him to be dishonest. Years ago there was a lot of trouble due to people whittling off little pieces of gold or silver coins and in that way collecting small quantities of valuable metal. It was impossible to catch anybody in the act, and the practice was a great nuisance. Then someone hit on the plan of milling the edges of coins and having a rule that when this milling was damaged the coin could not be passed. That stopped the trouble instantly. It no longer paid to do it.

The nature of a man's occupation is a help or a handicap, with regard to his honesty, according to the amount of supervision it carries with it. A man working in the branch office of a big company is probably more likely to go wrong than if he were in the main office, directly under observation of others in high authority.

A traveling man may establish for himself a lax code of ethics that he would never have considered if employed in a main office, subject to daily tab on his behavior and well systematized restrictions. A jewelry salesman with a large assortment of samples entrusted to his care, selling goods on commission, or a man who travels about collecting money for his firm, is at least no less honest than anybody else; but his work means a certain amount of temptation—especially if he ever faces a real need for immediate cash.

A mere youth is not as good a risk as an older man, for the reason that his character is still unformed. He has no reputation back of him to indicate what his future behavior will be. On the other hand, a man who has been in a position of trust and responsibility for two or three years, with a perfect record, may have been there just long enough to have won everybody's confidence and thus make defalcation comparatively easy. A surety company would rather guarantee the honesty of a man who has an unblemished record for a somewhat longer period. The man who plods along on a safe basis for ten years without any sign of skittishness is a pretty safe bet.

Some years ago an Italian psychologist declared that a certain age—from thirty-eight to about forty-four, I think it was—men were more likely to be dishonest than at any other time. Surety company experts take little stock in this theory. About the only reason a man aged thirty-eight might be more likely to steal than one twenty-eight is because of greater responsibility and greater demands upon him.

How to Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

AROUND THE WORLD WITH BEAUTY

Beauty Parallels

Norway cannot boast fairer blondes than our own Minnesota and Wisconsin, for in the middle west there are today women as true to the heroic proportions of Brunhilde as could ever be produced in that glorious land of the Vikings. England, Scotland, and Italy have colonized, not in any given spot, but in the whole wide country, with faithful sons bringing the heritage of their far off countries into a new one, and mating the traditions of an old world with the ambition and progress of a new.

There is no country in the wide world that has not mingled its blood with the heroic stream of the pioneer in our own.

Nor is it alone a race that there are such parallels between America and the continent. All the climatic conditions of the world are reproduced in this vast country. And so are all the skin conditions! The dry skin of the English beauty will be found along our coast. The young women of Maryland, Virginia, the New England states and California all have fair dry skins, delicate in texture, exquisite in beauty, and swift to show the early advance of approaching age.

Florida, Texas and the surrounding areas are very similar to Italy in temperature, climate, and complexion. Palm Beach has frequently been called the American Riviera, and its weather conditions are much the same.

There is this difference, however. In our southern states, the oily skin is somewhat rare. In fact, all through the country I have found that there are thousands, perhaps millions of women, who are troubled with this condition.

We have no Paris, but the Parisian desire for chic is universal. American women of every section have learned the importance of preserving their youthful complexions through the triumphs of beauty laws. First, cleanliness; second, stimulation; and third, toning.

Beauty is susceptible to inherited racial characteristics. Those of you who have Italian blood are wise to remember that for generations your feminine ancestors have aged long before their time. Counteract this inherent tendency. Begin in your earliest youth to build your beauty for the future.

Answers to Mothers

God could not be everywhere; therefore He made mothers.

—Jewish Proverb.

"I have a boy of 11 years who has been suffering bilious spells. Our doctor says he will probably have sick headaches all his life, and that's all the satisfaction I get. He used to be constipated, but he is better now, so that can't be the whole trouble."

"MRS. F."

I'm afraid your doctor has not kept up with the modern advances of medicine. Mrs. F. It's all nonsense that any one must have sick headaches all his life. Be careful never to repeat the doctor's remark before your son. Children's ailments should be discussed before them only to the extent that it is necessary to have them corrected. Children love the limelight and want to be the star actors; the thought of sick headaches, weak bladders, etc., takes a vivid grip on their imaginations and makes them feel they are especially favored in some way.

I can remember in my own childhood, "weak" ears was my star role, and I fear that not infrequently I had carache—in my mind only—many times when I craved extra attention.

There is some cause for your boy's headaches. Bad tonsils and teeth, eyes that need attention, undernourishment, and many other things may cause them. He needs a complete physical examination by a modern, conscientious physician, preferably a children's specialist. Mrs. F. We have a list of books on the care and feeding of children which you should also have. The column rules for obtaining material we offer in the column are to enclose two cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope, for all articles except the reducing and gaining pamphlet, for which ten cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope are required.

Do You Call Him Lazy?

In this theory. About the only reason a man aged thirty-eight might be more likely to steal than one twenty-eight is because of greater responsibility and greater demands upon him.

Today's Recipes

Complexion Salad — One cup grated raw carrots, one cup soaked shredded pineapple, two tablespoons sugar, one package lemon gelatin, one cup boiling water, one cup pineapple juice or cold water. Boil one cup water and add to gelatin. Add cold pineapple juice and sugar. Partly cool and add fruit and carrot. Serve with boiled salad dressing or mayonnaise.

Macaroni Loaf — One cup cooked macaroni, half cup bread crumbs, one cup milk, one tablespoon chopped pimento, one tablespoon chopped onion, one tablespoon chopped green pepper, one cup grated cheese or three-fourths cup cooked meat, one-fourth cup butter, one teaspoon salt, three eggs. Add scalded milk to bread crumbs, butter, chopped vegetables, macaroni and cheese. Mix well. Put in a pan lined with oiled paper. Set pan in a dish of hot water and bake three quarters of an hour in a moderate oven. Serve with or without a tomato or mushroom sauce.

Almond Torte — One-half cup butter, one-half cup sugar, four eggs yolks, one cup flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one-fourth teaspoon salt, five tablespoons milk, one teaspoon vanilla. Cream butter and sugar well, and beat beaten yolks into the creamed mixture. Sift baking powder, salt and flour together and add alternately with the milk to the first mixture. Add vanilla. Place batter in two small layer cake pans and cover egg whites, three-fourths cup sugar and one teaspoon almond extract.

Do not let the meringue come up to the sides of pan. Leave half an inch of sides of pan as the meringue spreads while baking. Cover meringue with blanched almonds, split. Bake 20 to 25 minutes in moderate oven. Serve with whipped cream between layers. This may also be served with strawberries or ice cream between layers.

Corn Oysters

(Mrs. Mary Morton's Daily Tested Recipe)
Score and press pulp from ears of corn, and to every pint of pulp allow two eggs, two heaping tablespoons flour, one-half teaspoon salt, dash of cayenne and a dash of black pepper. Beat eggs separately, add yolks first, and then whites, to corn, mixing gently. Add salt, pepper and flour. Mix again. Put two tablespoons butter in frying pan, when hot drop the mixture by spoonfuls into it. Brown on both sides.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

HOUSTON, Tex., July 3. — The liquor situation at the Democratic convention has been kept well in hand—the hands of the hotel bell hops.

These gentry served early notice on all arrivals that they had plenty of good stuff and everything would be lovely if purchased from them at their prices, but woe betide the individual whom they caught trying to smuggle a drop in from the outside—much as they'd regret it, a strict sense of duty would compel them immediately to turn up such offenders.

Despite its amazing impudence, this information was conveyed with a firmness and an air of authority that bespoke thorough organization and the ability and determination to fulfill both promise and threat.

Whosoever chooses to believe that higher-ups were ignorant of this is welcome to do so. I don't.

Sad as it is to relate, Houston has shown a disposition to gouge its visitors, which was entirely lacking in Kansas City.

Of course the responsible class of Houstonians hasn't shared it, but it must have been obvious even to this class that the underlings were all set for a big clean-up at the guests' expense, and the responsible folk evidently shut their eyes and let the camp followers go ahead.

It doesn't leave a convention sojourner with as good a taste in his mouth as the end of the K. C. affair did.

An admirer of General John A. Lejeune of the Marine corps dragged me out of bed the other morning with a long distance telephone call clear from New York to ask whether I knew anything he could do in aid of a vice presidential boom which was just being inflated in the general interest.

Considering how late in the day it started, and how little political acquaintance the general has, it turned out a pretty creditable boom at that. There was a good deal of talk about Lejeune launched earlier, it might have been formidable.

The vice presidential nomination is a nice little compliment to anybody but a senator.

For a senator it's a demotion, except on the long chance that the president dies in office. The senator loses his vote and his voice, and becomes a political nonentity. If he accepts, he simply sacrifices himself in the hope of strengthening his party's ticket.

Charley Curtis' case was a little different. He probably regards the job as a kind of honorable retirement.

But Senator Robinson of Arkansas, who was considered the best Democratic vice presidential possibility when he arrived in Houston, isn't ready to retire. He wasn't enthusiastic, and it undoubtedly was genuine.

Old convention goers tell me women are taking thrice as prominent a part as in any similar gathering before, except at Kansas City, and a considerably more prominent one than there.

Experts attribute it to the warmth of the wet and dry fight here, which beats K. C. hollow. The politicians are as afraid of the woman's vote as death. They still regard it as an unknown quantity, and fear the unknown like most of us.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

WHY HURRY?

All you little girls of 16 and 17 listen to me. Don't you realize that, in spite of the growing list of divorces, the majority of marriages still are for life, and life is long? Don't you realize that the very best part of your girlhood is before you, and that some day, if you marry now, you are going to feel cheated out of it? And it is hardly fair to the boy you are marrying, or to the children you may have, to give them a young, inexperienced girl, really only half educated, for a wife and mother. I suppose this little preaching will do no good, but if you could see the many letters I get from schoolgirls who are so much in love and are planning to be married at once, you would excuse it.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I have been a silent reader of your column for a long time, and I believe you could help me solve my problem. I'm a country girl of 16. I've a very nice boy friend. He is three years my senior. He says he loves me more than any girl he ever went with, and I'm sure I love him very dearly. We are engaged to be married this fall, but sometimes I feel as though I'm not ready to get married yet. I've lots of time yet. Now, Mrs. Lee, do you think I should go ahead? Would I be cheating my friend by doing so?"

"BROWN EYES."

Don't marry anyone until you are good and ready. Brown Eyes, it is much fairer to your friend to wait until you are ready, and you will be a much more contented and happy wife if you don't.

COCK OF THE ROCK

At this point in his story, Bobolink's eyes fairly glittered with excitement. "As wife finished speaking, a creature stepped from behind the shadow of the rocks and rushed straight at us, and we thought the stranger intended to stamp on us. We noticed its feet, and they were strong and cruel looking, and we were just taking to our wings when another voice gave a shrill cry, and the stranger stopped short in its tracks. From out of the dimness appeared a second figure."

"There, there, wife. Don't do anything in a hurry that you will be sorry for afterward," advised the newcomer. "Wait and find out if the visitors are not telling the truth. This country is an easy one to be lost in. You know your self that only the natives can find their way about. Anyhow, it seems to me that even if the little ones intended to be unfriendly, they are too tiny to do any damage."

"The owner of the voice came slowly toward us, and we were so amazed at what we saw that we forgot to be afraid. The creature was as large as a barnyard pigeon and more beautiful than any one we had yet seen. We knew that it was some kind of a bird, both because of the eggs that evidently belonged to it and because it was covered with feathers. These feathers were almost the exact color of the rind of a ripe pumpkin except those upon the tips of the wings and tail—some of these were jet black and some were brown. But it was the fellow's head we looked the longest at. There the feathers stood straight up and reached from his beak to the back of his neck, and they were as bright orange as the rest of his coat."

"For goodness sake, who are you?" gasped wife. "And what are you wearing on the top of your head?"

"I whispered to Mrs. Bobolink to keep still. I was afraid that the marry too early.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I read your column every day and think your advice very practical. I am in love with a boy five years my senior. I am 16 years of age. I lack one year of finishing my high school career. I wish to ask your advice about my problem. I think that my boy friend loves me. He goes with another girl about once every week or two, and he is with me three or four times a week. He says that he would like us to go with some one else a little to be sure whether I love him or not. We are engaged to be married when I finish school. He also thinks it best for me to go with some one else because he wants me to have a good time while I am in school. Does he really love me?"

"WILLIE IS WAITING." He sounds so sensible, Willie, that I can hardly believe he is really in love. However, I think you would do well to do as he says, for it is far from sure that a little girl in her last year of high school is seriously in love with anyone. Better both of you go with other people and get a good time and put thoughts of marriage out of your mind for the present. Although, I suppose this is too much to ask.

I wonder if you married the man your parents did not like. Annie? I hope not, because you are so young it would be much better to wait a year or two. Twelve years difference in ages is a good deal, although it is insuperable.

CARROLL - BINDERS TAKE TWO GAMES BY ONE-RUN MARGIN

The Carroll-Binder Co. softball team won a doubleheader in the American League Monday night, mowing out one-run victories over the Kiwanis Club and the league-leading Lang Chevrolet Co. in a pair of seven-inning games at Cox Memorial Athletic Field.

The pair of victories elevated Carroll-Binder to second place in the standing with a record of five victories against two defeats, and dropped the Lang Chevrolet Co. to third place with three games won and two lost. The Hudson-Essex nine automatically took possession of first place with two victories and one setback, but must defeat the Rotary Club Tuesday night in order to retain its hold on the top rung.

In the first half of the twin bill, Carroll-Binder found the Kiwanis in a fighting mood and had an uphill battle from the start. Trailing by a score of 11 to 1 when the first half of the fourth inning had been completed, a home run by Murrell with the bases full tied the score in the sixth and Pletcher Neville for Carroll-Binder won his own game in the last of the ninth with a single, which scored Leachy, who had walked.

Neville and Randall formed the battery for the winners in the opening game with White pitching and Hult catching for Kiwanis. The Ki-

JAMESTOWN BEATS OSBORN CEMENTS; RALLIES IN NINTH

Jamestown added another victory to its win column, Sunday afternoon, when it defeated the strong Osborn Cements, at Osborn in a hotly contested game by the score of 8 to 7.

The winners had an uphill battle as Osborn scored six runs in the fore part of the game to Jamestown's three. The winners bunched hits in the last two innings to win the game. Evans, for Jamestown, pitched his usual good game, while his team-mates gave him good support. Jamestown practically won the game in the ninth. After one was down, Moorman and Hollingsworth singled, Shadley sacrificed, with two down, Ary hit for two bases, scoring two runs. Back, up next, singled. Ary was held on a third but scored what proved to be the winning run, when Leach singled. Osborn failed to score in its half of the ninth. Box score:

XENIA QUOIT TEAM BEATS MIAMIS IN LEAGUE CONTEST

With nothing in particular at stake, the Xenia Quoit Club, which has been having its ups and downs this season, nevertheless had the satisfaction of registering its third victory in the Miami Valley Quoit League Monday night.

Xenia defeated the Dayton Miamis 5 to 2 on the local courts in the final inter-city league match on the first round of play and the last to be played under the existing system of scoring.

Beginning Monday, July 9, when Springfield appears here for a match, the league will start all over again under a new scoring system, which will be in operation for the remainder of the season.

Xenia won four out of the six regulation games Monday night and received the bonus of an extra game for defeating the Miamis 376 to 315 on aggregate team total for the evening.

Xenia won the first game, 75 to 50; also the second, 62 to 55 and the third 85 to 45; lost the fourth, 67 to 48, and the fifth, 58 to 53 and then won the sixth, 73 to 43.

Brennan, of Xenia, was high-scorer of the match with seventy-nine points to his credit, followed by Frame with seventy-seven and Merritt with sixty-two. Emerick obtained fifty-nine points to lead the Miamis. The scores:

RUTH GOING GOOD
NEW YORK, July 3.—Despite a lame back and a wrenched shoulder, Babe Ruth is keeping pace with his ambition to hit seventy home runs this year. The big Yankee slugger's 31st homer of the current campaign, made against Garland Braxton at Washington yesterday, puts him one past the half-way mark of his 1927 record, and the Yankee has played only sixty-nine of his 154 games. The Bam is 24 games, 22 days and six homers ahead of his last year's record race.

RED CAST-OFF PUTS FORMER TEAM-MATES IN SECOND SECTION

NEW YORK, July 3.—What a scramble the American League race would be if those Yankees weren't so high hat! Each of the other seven clubs has a chance for second or third money. Even the tailend Tigers have a percentage of 400 and are only four games away from a first division berth.

All the teams in both leagues that are in the first division or near it will be on their best behavior today and tomorrow, bon players and managers put a lot of faith in the old game.

July—the season's half-way mark—will be there at the end of the year.

The Cubs jumped to third place in the National League and the Reds dropped back into the second division when Artie Neff, Chicago's veteran southpaw held Cincinnati to five hits, winning 8 to 2.

Boston's Hornsby took two extra-inning tilts from the Phillies to 3 in fourteen innings and 5 to 4 in ten innings. Hollingsworth twirled good ball for nine innings in the opener.

The other National League teams did not play.

Garland Braxton, once a Yankee, pitched the Nats to a 4 to 3 win over the Yanks. It was the third defeat of the year for George Pilsner. Joe Judge's two triples did more damage than Babe Ruth's thirty-first homer.

Lefty Grove of the Athletics pitched the Red Sox, 9 to 2, but the Sox tripped up Ruth Walberg in the ninth, 7 to 4. Cobb smacked four hits in the opener. Al Simmons whalloped seven hits in eight times at bat.

The White Sox went gunning and snagged two victories from the Browns, 7 to 1 and 9 to 8. Ted Blankenship was a cinch in the opener but the Sox just lasted to win the nightcap.

Uhl took another trimming and Bruce Caldwell, ex-Yale star, again failed as a pinch hitter as Cleveland lost to Detroit 7 to 3.

Bill Curtis, of the Cincinnati Reds, was born in Beeville, Tex., 1896.

Peter Jackson, probably the greatest negro heavyweight of all time, was born in St. Croix, the West Indies, 1861.

Marvin Hart, one-time heavyweight champion of the world, knocked out Jack Root, in twelve rounds, 1904.

Sammy Mandell defeated Rocky Kansas in ten rounds and won the world's lightweight championship at Chicago, 1926.

Players Dainoff, Gore and Kelly for the Chicago Nationals, played each eight times at bat in a game, 1883. A record.

The entire Chicago National League team was at bat a total of 66 times in a game, 1883. Also a record.

Mr. James Wilson, Dayton, was a visitor of Miss Zeida Booths, Williams Ave., Sunday.

Mr. Edward James, of Indianapolis, was the guest Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Wigginton, E. Market St.

Mr. John Roark, of Dayton, visited with relatives and friends here Sunday.

Mrs. Emma Robinson, E. Market St. is confined indoors by illness.

Mrs. Arbella Williams, of Cincinnati, in company with her cousin, Vashli Jones, who is spending part of her vacation with her, attended the funeral services of Mr. David Sides Monday. They were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. James Jones, N. Columbus Ave. Miss Audrey Jones accompanied them on their return home and will visit for a few weeks.

The Rev. C. M. Long, East Orange, N. J., preached two strong sermons at the Zion Baptist Church Sunday morning and at the Third Baptist Church Sunday night. After a few days' visit with his sister, Mrs. W. E. Johnson of Wilberforce, he will leave for Little Rock, Ark., to see his invalid father.

All members of Jabin Temple, 373 will meet at 7:30 Thursday evening. Business of importance bring your cards. J. W. Robinson, E. M.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR JULY 4 CELEBRATION IN SHAWNEE PARK

Shawnee Park will take on the appearance of a county fair, Wednesday, July 4, according to the development of plans for the Greene County Community Picnic. Booths and tables were being placed in the park Tuesday. The tables will be decorated with flags and flowers and ice cream, pop, candy and other refreshments will be sold at the booths, in charge of various civic organizations.

Something will be doing every minute from 2 to 10 p. m., according to members of the committee in charge. The Xenia Municipal Band will play during the afternoon evening.

The public wedding, with well known principals, will be performed at 5 o'clock. The bridal procession will start from the John G. Baldwin home on Park Drive and the ceremony will take place in a prominent spot in the park. A bride's table will be arranged by Alpha Theta Chapter, Delta Theta Tau Sorority, which is co-operating with The Downtown Country Club in making the wedding a success.

Congressman Roy G. Fitzgerald, Dayton, will speak at 8 o'clock. A community "sing" will be held at 7 o'clock and band music will intersperse the program of games, contests and other picnic features during the afternoon and evening.

Families are urged to bring their fireworks to the picnic for the general display.

Contributions for the cafeteria supper, to be served on the grounds, are to be brought to the park during the afternoon. Plans are being made to feed at least 1,000 people. Funds from the picnic will be used to encourage the development of the park.

Anyone having flowers for decorating at the picnic is urged to bring them to the park by noon Wednesday. They are also asked to bring containers for the flowers. Each person is responsible for his own container. In case of rain, they are to be taken to Central High School.

WALSH SAYS TUNNEY BETTER TODAY THAN FOR DEMPSEY MATCH

No Less Authority Than Gene Himself Says Its True

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, July 3.—Gene Tunney is a better fighter today than at any time before or during the Dempsey match in Chicago last September.

This opinion was vouchsafed the writer over the long distance telephone this morning by the final authority of them all in this particular instance, Tunney himself, and Billy Gibson, who talks the champion's fights for him. Their joint statement came in answer to reports in circulation here that Tunney, either mistaking Heene for an out and out sap or having become bored by the tedium of boxing, was neglecting his training.

Either way, it didn't sound right. Brother Tunney may become pained with human nature in general from time to time but the detail of physical conditioning, far from being a trial to him, is just about his only known voice.

He was justifiably indignant when he heard about it.

Prof. Gibson, when called upon, said among other things, "that he was particularly delighted to find Tunney's 'judgment' of distance to be all it should. It seems the first thing the professor looks for is a fighter's 'judgment of distance'."

"I was tickled to death when I first saw Tunney last week," said the professor. "He only had been boxing a couple of weeks then and I figured that, with his lay off, his judgment of distance wouldn't be just right. But it was, in fact, it would have been wrong, maybe. Anyhow, the Tunney I've seen up here is the Tunney we had before the Philadelphia fight with Dempsey. He looks like the old gate receipt to me."

The professor added that Tunney weighs 196 pounds and probably will go to the post weighing slightly more than 191. He has been working steadily and easily the professor said, having failed to appear on Sunday only because he wanted to "duck the mob"—the professor again.

Even then, it appeared, it wasn't a complete day of rest because our hero took the road for six miles; the professor knows, because he went along on a motorcycle.

That's one thing about the professor. He won't ask his athletes to do anything he wouldn't do himself—on a motorcycle.

DUBLIN, July 3.—An imposing demonstration was planned here today for Major James Fitzmaurice and his two German companions, who flew over the Atlantic in the plane Bremen. # The Theater

By C. K.

NEW YORK, July 3.—Personal and confidential: Mary Pickford failed to notify her press department and a photographer wasn't around when she had her curls cut off in New York; so she had to have her bob trimmed, a day later, in Chicago, so that pictures could be taken of her in a barber's chair.

Everybody's wondering how Mae Murray was able to keep her 16-months baby a secret so long. She's Mrs. David Mdivna, you know. She was afraid that the news she was a mother would injure her popularity in romantic roles. Joseph Schildkraut is to have the much sought role of Gaylord Ravenel in Universal's version of "Show Boat."

United Artists has finally announced its plans for the coming season. Mary Pickford will do one comedy-drama in a "grown-up" part. Norma Talmadge will be seen in "The Woman Disputed," which has a Russian setting. Gloria Swanson is scheduled to appear in "The Swamp" with Edmund Lowe as leading man, but Eric Von Stroheim is directing, so it may not be finished until 1935, or thereabouts.

The company will also release a new Dolores Del Rio picture, "Revenge," adapted from the story of the "Bear Famer's Daughter." Bercevicci repudiates it.

Vilma Banky becomes an individual star minus Ronald Colman, in "The Awakening."

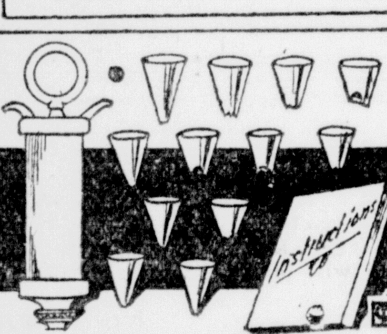

In this the Englishman, Walter Butler, makes his debut as leading man. Charlie Chaplin promises a new picture which presently bears the title, "City Lights," and which will have sound effects.

United Artists also will offer a new Douglas Fairbanks picture by Elton Thomas (which is Douglas Fairbanks without a mustache), in which the adventures of the "Three Musketeers" and the "Man in the Iron Mask" are happily jumbled.

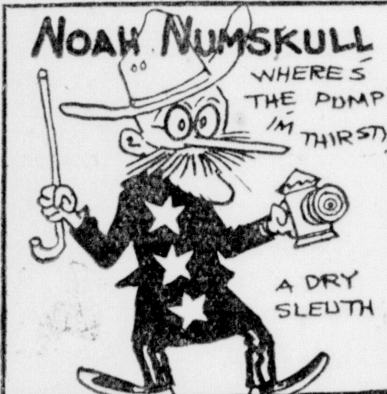

D. W. Griffith will show us whether he has anything new in direction to offer, in "The Battle of the Sexes." John Barrymore will be seen in "Tempest" (already shown in New York) and another, with Camille Horn, under Ernest Lubitsch's direction.

Ronald Colman will be revealed as an individual star in an adaptation (mind you, we say adaptation) of Joseph Conrad's "The Rescue."

AIR SPEEDOMETER BEING TESTED BY DAYTON STUDENTS

DAYTON, O., July 3.—Final tests of a speedometer for airplanes are being made at the department of mechanical engineering, Dayton University, it was announced recently. The device is the invention of W. C. Rogers, of San Antonio, Tex., formerly of the U. S. air service.

Further tests will be conducted by the engineers of the air service. Adapted to night flying the device will be of incalculable value for night bombing operations, it is said.

The speedometer records the speed of airplanes, or other aircraft, above ground, or above sea. It includes a moving map which shows the course over which the ship is flying the rate of speed also.

The inventor claims that with this device a pilot can not become lost in fog banks, in darkness or in clouds. The instrument is so refined that it will indicate the drift, if any, due to winds and will also show whether a plane is standing still or going forward in case of a severe head wind.

Roger submitted his device to National Advisory committee for Aeronautics at Washington, which is said to have been favorably impressed with the idea.

The inventor claims that many of the oceanic disasters of the last two years would not have occurred had his instrument been aboard those planes which went down and never were heard of again.

WILL RIDE FALLS IN RUBBER BALL

AKRON, O., July 3.—Riding the Niagara Falls in a rubber ball is being planned by Jean A. Lusster, Springfield, Mass., a former parachute jumper and motor-cycle racer. The ball will weigh 600 pounds and will be eight feet in diameter, it is said.

Lusster after planning for the stunt for more than a year is in Akron negotiating with a rubber company for the construction of his unique sphere to be completed July 4. He expects to "Bowl over the falls," in a somewhat different manner than that used by the four previous successful navigators of the trip.

The Massachusetts man intends to ride in the ball in an airplane which will drop him in the river above the American Falls.

The ball is weighted down in order to allow the rider to sit up during his trip, according to Lusster. The rubber sphere will have thirty-two air compartments, so it will float. It will be covered with leather like a football, and breathing will be through four air lines. In case these fail an oxygen tank will keep him from suffocating, Lusster says.

HOOVERS ADJUST THEMSELVES

Candidate And His Wife Find Themselves In Glare Of Spotlight

—By A. J. Scott, specially posed for Central Press.
Herbert Hoover at his desk.

By ALEXANDER C. HERMAN
Staff Writer for Central Press and
Gazette

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 3.—With thousands of words already written about them, and millions more to come before election day, the Hoovers are gracefully adjusting themselves to the click-click of pitiless publicity.

It may be tough going. The members of the household realize it. But what can they do?

They are not publicity seekers. Rather would they be left alone in the quiet of their charming street home. But cameras will click, pencils with scratch and reporters will buzz.

And in the clicking, and scratching and buzzing distortions will creep in.

For instance: Legend has it (young legend) that Tut, police dog pet of the Hoover menage, gets his master's newspaper as it is delivered, and brings it to his room. He carries it there all right, but no longer is he allowed to get it from the delivery boys.

"Tut," explains Herbert Hoover, Jr., "began the trick by picking up the paper at the front door. Then he started picking it up at the walk. Impatient with that, he would catch it as the boys threw it from their bicycles. Finally, he began jumping at the boys, knocking them off their wheels."

"We knew nothing about this until one of the newspaper offices phoned about the high mortality of delivery boys on the route. Tut's activities were curtailed at once."

And a favorite story was spoiled a bit.

The dog is a classy animal, demanding formal introduction to one of the Hoovers before recognizing a visitor. His lack of recognition isn't registered passively. Fortunate for this reporter, young Hoover was at hand when Tut was being interviewed.

Tut was one of Hoover's first supporters. One day when the secretary wasn't feeling well, and remained in bed, the dog sensed that something was wrong, and stood guard over his master. He had to be locked up before he allowed even the doctor to come in.

Writers who stress the charm of the Hoover home are right. With its garden, quiet porch, trees, birds and little pond of gold fish, it is one of the most charming residences in all Washington. If the family moves on to the White House, it may not be gaining much in way of a home.

In a quiet corner of the first floor is Hoover's study. It is simple, warm, attractive without any ostentation.

Above his desk hang a couple of certificates—engineering society memberships. On his bookshelves are volumes of political science. On the walls are a few pictures of Lincoln, and a poem on fishing beginning "A fellow ain't thinking mean—Out fishing."

All bear mute evidence to the several sides of the man—the engineer, the statesman, the fisherman.

On top of a bookcase are two other silent tributes—one is a beautiful edition of Agriicola's "De Re Metallica" translated from the Latin by Mr. and Mrs. Hoover; and the other is a chest in which are lodged magnificent bits of handiwork—tributes from the Belgians. The most beautiful piece is done on the back of an American flour-sack.

The rest of the lower floor consists of reception, living rooms furnished with taste. A wide stairway leads to the upper floors. Along its

I'll Tell The World

In spite of all your enthusiasm over a new salad oil or shoe or radio battery, you cannot possibly pass on the good news to more than a few people. You can't really "tell the world."

The manufacturer himself is in the same fix. He can't tell the world. His salesmen can't. His dealers can't. And the world ought to be told. It wants to know. It wants to know what's new, what's not only good but better than the best; or cheaper; or more durable; or more useful; or just plain more fun.

Advertising "tells the world" today. Back of every advertisement is somebody, perhaps a whole group of somebodies, full of enthusiasm just as you are when you discover something that makes things easier or better for you. They are telling just as many people as they can reach in the world in person. But that is only a tiny fraction of those they speak to in advertising.

Advertisements are truly personal things to the people who write them. And they can be exceedingly personal for you, too, for they mean better food, better clothing, increased health, a happier home, greater prosperity.

REPORTED DEATH OF AMUNDSEN DENIED; SEARCH CONTINUES

Seven Nations Are Joined In Effort To Find Explorer

OSLO, NORWAY, July 3.—With seven nations, fourteen ships and more than a score of planes now cooperating in the search for him, the disappearance of Capt. Roald Amundsen, who with his five companions left Tromsø, Norway, in a French seaplane on June 18 to search for General Noble was still shrouded in mystery today.

Two British Moth planes are expected to arrive here soon to join the searching expeditions. Upon their arrival the number of planes engaged in the rescue work will total twenty-two.

In denying the report circulated yesterday that Amundsen's body had been found, relief officials here stated that none of the ships now scouring the Arctic seas had reported finding any trace of the noted explorer or his plane.

LONDON, July 3.—The Soviet ice-breaker Krassin has succeeded in reaching the five survivors of the lost dirigible Italia's crew and the Swedish aviator Lundborg, a dispatch from Moscow to the Copenhagen newspaper Sydsvenski Dagbladet transmitted here by the Exchange Telegraph Company stated today.

The dispatch, which was fragmentary, gave no details and failed to state whether or not the ice-breaker had succeeded in taking the marooned men aboard. There was no confirmation from any other source.

HOOVER WORKING ON BUDGET OF BUREAU

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Herbert Hoover deserted politics momentarily today to draw up the commerce department's new budget.

He was assisted by Walter F. Brown of Toledo, assistant commerce secretary, who, according to persistent reports, will succeed Hoover in the cabinet.

Hoover's acceptance speech has been completed in rough draft. He still wants to consult with a number of political advisers before he completes it.

The Republican national headquarters in the Barr building, from which the Hoover-Curtis campaign will be conducted, are the most elaborate ever set up for a presidential campaign. There are forty rooms and offices which occupy the entire fourth floor. Work of moving into the new offices is practically completed.

The fund being raised by the Greene County Home-Coming Association to finance erection of a community house in Shawnee Park to be available for use during the 1928 Greene County Home-Coming, has been increased to $2,000 with an announcement of a gift of $1,000 by Frank L. Connable, wealthy former Xenian.

The ex-Xenian also made known in a telegram received this week by T. H. Zell, chairman of the Home-Coming Executive Committee, that his mother, Mrs. John Connable, also wishes to subscribe another $1,000 toward the auditorium should the fund be incomplete. Recently Home-Coming officials sent telegrams to a number of wealthy former Xenians soliciting $1,000 donations from each for the auditorium.

Mr. Connable is the second former resident to make a gift of this nature. His telegram, sent from Saranac Inn, Saranac Lake, N. Y., was as follows: "Wire forwarded, just reached me here. I shall be delighted to be one of ten subscribers and commend both the plan and the idea. Mother, who is spending the season here, will likewise be glad to subscribe should your list of ten be incomplete. We both wish you success and may move out to enjoy the occasion."

Mr. Connable is a member of one of the most prominent of the old Xenia families and was formerly vice-president of the DuPont Powder Co., Wilmington, Del.

Before moving away from Xenia twenty-five or thirty years ago, he was a member of the firm of Connable-Harper and Co., which manufactured electrical supplies in a plant on the site of what is now The Eavey Co., wholesale grocers, at Detroit and Third Sts.

The plant handled electrical storage batteries for surgical instruments. Harper invented a device by which light bulbs were attached to flexible surgical instruments, used by surgeons today.

Connable's father, John Connable was in the pork packing business in Xenia with J. H. Hardine, Alpha, and Eli Miller. He later became connected with the Chattanooga Powder Co., Chattanooga, Tenn., which was afterward sold to or combined with the DuPont Powder Co.

Mr. Frank Connable returns to Xenia every few years for a visit to renew old friendships. James M. Hopkins, Chicago was the first to contribute to the fund, which has now reached $3,000.

FIVE KILLED BY WIND STORMS SWEEPING NORTHWEST STATES

MINNEAPOLIS, July 3.—Five persons were killed and property damage that will run over $1,000,000 was caused by wind storms of cyclonic proportions that swept over four northwest states early Monday, a checkup revealed today.

Most of the damage was to farming communities, where crops were laid low by wind and hail.

The storms struck in Minnesota, Wisconsin, North and South Dakota. The velocity of the wind was estimated in excess of 70 miles an hour. Rain, lightning and thunder accompanied the wind.

Lightning was responsible for two of the five persons killed, while the other three deaths resulted from the collapse of buildings.

REICHSTAG DEPUTY SAYS ELECTION DUG MONARCHISM GRAVE

Magazine Article Creates Sensation In Berlin.

BERLIN, July 3.—A political sensation was caused in Germany today by an article written for a nationalist magazine by Reichstag Deputy Walter Lambach, who declared that the election of Field Marshal Von Hindenburg as president of the German Republic "dug the grave for German Monarchism."

The monarchist section of the population who voted for Von Hindenburg, "helped dig this grave," the writer said. He added:

"Kings and Kaisers are no longer hallowed and venerable persons and institutions to our growing youth and future voters. To our growing youth they have become figures fit only for the stage and the film."

The sensation was heightened by the fact that restoration of the monarchy is the first principle of the nationalist party.

Lambach demands that the nationalists abandon their monarchist principles and accept conservative republicanism in membership.

"Kreuzzeitung," the official organ of Count Westarp, leader of the nationalist party, regrets that the fundamental principles of the party are being made an issue, "because the party has more pressing cares at this moment."

Herr Lambach gave the following explanation of the change on the part of the German people:

"The shadow of the Kaiser and King rising up behind the president would have overshadowed everything else, but it no longer overshadows a Hindenburg. On the contrary, William, II. disappeared behind the tall, pious old gentleman who now represents the Reich. A functionary and a placeholder was to be elected, but a carrier of his own greatness became president. Before his greatness, the nimbus of the Hohenzollerns collapsed. How many millions of true monarchists have been turned into embittered republicans by the second marriage of the Kaiser and the marriage scandals in his family was shown at the national referendum on the proposed confiscation of the royal properties and in the last Reichstag election."

KILLED IN PLANE

NEWPORT, R. I., July 3.—Funeral arrangements were being made today for Lieutenant Commander Thibault Nelson Alford, native of Texas, and Lieutenant Commander William Butler Jr., who plunged to their death when their seaplane while looping went into a tail spin and crashed into Narragansett Bay.

Alford was killed instantly but Butler lived a short while after being taken from the wrecked plane.

TOWN DOOMED WHEN LAVA FROM VOLCANO CREEPS TOWARD IT

MANILA, July 3.—The town of Libog, at the base of Mayor Volcano, appeared to be doomed today as the flow of lava slowly crept toward it, obliterating vegetation in its wake.

Only one inhabitant remains in the town, a priest who is standing guard over the village church.

HOLBROOK BLINN

During recent weeks death has come to four men, identified with the development of the theater in the United States. Holbrook Blinn, one of the most popular of actors, died from injuries received in falling from his horse; Leo Dittrichstein, dramatist-actor, passed away in Vienna; Robert Mantell, Shakespearean artist, succumbed after an illness, and Avery Hopwood, author of many bedroom farces, youngest of the four, was drowned while bathing at Nice, France.

HE WAS IN SAME BOAT WASHINGTON, July 3.—The sympathetic attitude of a juror in the circuit court here during trial of an alimony suit, toward the defendant because of similar marital difficulties, caused Justice Frederick L. Siddons to grant a new trial to Mrs. Lillian B. Coles, of Katonah, N. Y., in her suit against her former husband, Nathaniel C. Halstead, of this city, for $9,060 back alimony.

In the jury room at the close of the trial, according to affidavits filed by the woman's attorney, Richardson A. Baker, foreman, recited difficulties he had had with his wife, Mrs. Mae Kamm Baker, concerning alimony payments. The rest of the jury, was so affected, Mrs. Coles' attorney set forth in his motion, that it rendered a verdict adverse to the plaintiff.

Mrs. Cole had obtained her divorce in New York courts and filed suit for back alimony here, where her former husband makes his home.

CINCINNATI BARS DANCE MARATHONS

CINCINNATI, O., July 3.—This city will not be the scene of a dance marathon if Chief of Police William Copelan has his way.

Inspired by the monetary successes of long distance teleriscopic contests held in other cities, two Chicago promoters have announced their intention of inaugurating a similar event in music hall here on the night of July 7th, and have inserted advertisements in the newspapers to that effect, according to police.

"We have a clause in our city ordinance which reads that all dance halls must close at midnight," Copelan declared, and forthwith ordered the proposed marathon stopped.

ISSUE BANK CALL

COLUMBUS, O., July 3.—A call for condition of state banks as of June 30, was issued today by T. H. Blair, Ohio State Superintendent of Banks.

BRITISH CRUISER WRECKED ON SHOALS

HALIFAX, N. S., July 3.—The British cruiser Dauntless, which struck on Trump Cap Shoals, eight miles east of Halifax late yesterday, probably will be a total loss, according to crews of lifeboats returning early today from the shoals.

The ship struck in a dense fog and was held fast amidships, with rocks piercing her hull. Her compartments soon filled with water.

The combined efforts of five tugs and the rising tide failed to float the ship. If a storm comes up, mariners fear she will be swept into deep water, as she is exposed to the open sea.

OFFICIALS UNABLE TO REPORT WINNER UNTIL ALL LANDED

French Balloonists In North Carolina Have Hopes

DETROIT, July 3.—Officials of the James Gordon Bennett international balloon race, today expect to receive a telegram from Ferdinand Eimermacher, pilot of the Munster, German entry and the only one of the twelve contestants not yet reported down.

Carl S. Betts, of the board of commerce, who has been checking the race, believes that the Munster came to earth about 6 p. m. last night but that Eimermacher landed too far from a telegraph office in a small inland village to send a telegram before the office closed for the night.

"I will not make any hazard as to the winner of the race," Betts said, "but I am almost certain that the Munster is on the ground now. The bags in the race were called 50-hour balloons and their gas and ballast would be exhausted about 6 p. m. Monday night."

Race officials do not believe that it is possible for the Munster to have reached Florida, but that Eimermacher may have gone as far south as Georgia. Of the eleven bags already reported only one, the Blanche hard, French entry, landed in North Carolina. The others came to rest in Virginia and West Virginia.

The Blanche, piloted by Ferdinand Charles Dolfus Eimermacher, with Georges Gormier as aide, landed at Walnut Cove, N. C., about eighteen miles north of Winston-Salem, N. C. The balloon settled in a millpond but neither pilot, aide nor the bag were injured. Dolfus estimates his distance as 475 and believes that the first honors in the race will go to him.

The United States hope of retaining the cup was lost when the army bag, piloted by Capt. W. E. Kepner, landed near Kendrick, Va., at noon yesterday. Kepner was the winner of the national elimination race from Pittsburgh, May 30.

WALNUT COVE, N. C., July 3.—Hopeful that they have won the Gordon Bennett international balloon race, Charles Dolfus Eimermacher and Georges Gormier, aide of the French entry Blanche, prepared today to leave this little hamlet.

The balloonists landed here yesterday after taking off from Detroit.

The balloonists were confident that they had won the race, although the German bag, Munster, has not yet reported, according to information here.

PROTEST BILL FOR INTER-MARRIAGE

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, July 3.—Women school teachers throughout Yugoslavia are holding mass meetings to protest against a bill introduced in parliament compelling female teachers to marry men teachers, if they marry at all.

Sponsors of the bill assert that girl teachers who marry men are belonging to another "class"—especially to a "lower class"—become estranged from their profession.

At a meeting held here women teachers adopted a resolution protesting against "the terrorism threatening the freedom of marriage and the right to fall in love."

Speakers declared that, if the government wants them to marry male teachers, it should employ men like Douglas Fairbanks or John Barrymore, who are not only handsome, but have the film reputation of being able to make love in a big way.

SAYS SOUTH WILL SUPPORT SMITH

COLUMBIA, S. C., July 3.—Expressing belief that the anti-Smith forces are so much in the minority in the south that they will not attempt to organize, Roach S. Stewart, of Lancaster, state Democratic chairman, declared today he would support the New York governor for president.

"While the South Carolina delegation did not support Smith in the convention, he was clearly the choice of all the delegates to the convention," Stewart said.

Stewart was a delegate-at-large.

Happy Warrior's Running Mate

The Democratic national convention didn't waste any more time in selecting a nominee for the vice-presidency than it did in choosing a candidate for president. It voted overwhelmingly on the first ballot in favor of Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, shown in the picture with Mrs. Robinson. The nominee is considered one of the strongest leaders in the Democratic party.

BATH TWP. SCHOOL BAND IS GIVING CONCERTS

The Bath Twp. Consolidated School band, which captured a state prize at the Ohio State Fair in Columbus, is giving regular concerts this summer and is considered one of the finest school musical organizations in the state. The band and orchestra are under the direction of Professor

SURVEYOR RECOMMENDS THAT REQUEST FOR ROAD BE DENIED

A recommendation that County Commissioners refuse to grant a petition requesting the construction of a new thoroughfare through the village of Osborn, is made by County Surveyor W. J. Davis, in a report of a survey and plat made filed with the board.

Surveyor Davis, while declaring that in his opinion the road petition on file should not be granted, also suggested certain changes which in his judgment should be made in the proposed improvement in the event Commissioners decide to grant the petition.

He advises that the road width should be sixty feet and that additional right-of-way should be obtained from the proposed beginning of the thoroughfare for a distance of about 900 feet or so in order to provide for an overhead crossing, inasmuch as he believes a grade crossing on the road would be dangerous.

If his suggestion is adopted, Surveyor Davis also advises Commissioners that state highway officials and railroads should be consulted. Recently a petition containing the signatures of 633 residents of Osborn and Fairfield was filed with Commissioners, protesting against the proposed road. No action on either the road petition or the protests has been taken.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY TO LIQUOR CHARGE

Price Cummings pleaded not guilty to possessing liquor before Judge S. C. Wright in Probate Court Tuesday. His hearing is set for July 6 at 9 a. m.

The court fixed his bond at $500 and Cummings was placed in the County Jail until bond is arranged.

Cummings was arrested Tuesday by Deputy Sheriff George Sugden as a result of a raid conducted on his residence on the Bellbrook Pike last Saturday afternoon by Sheriff Ohmer Tate and his deputies.

A quantity of alleged liquor was found, the mixture consisting of water, corn whiskey and ammonia, which was turned over to Professor Adams, Antioch College chemist, for analysis. The analysis showed the required percentage of alcohol to furnish grounds for the filing of an affidavit against Cummings, Sheriff Tate said.

ABANDONED SCHOOL BUILDING IS SOLD

The Opportunity School building on E. Church St., opposite the new Central High School, is being dismantled by Jeffries and Fudge, local contractors, under a contract with the City Board of Education.

By the terms of the contract, the old temporary building, which has outlived its usefulness, is sold outright to the contractors, who will tear it down and also level off and grade the adjacent site of the old Central High School building, which was abandoned and recently razed.

The school board expects to plant the tract with grass seed and the Xenia Garden Club may possibly take up the beautification work later.

PROGRESS MADE ON SCHMIDT BUILDING

Work of re-constructing the Schmidt Bldg., S. Detroit St., is progressing rapidly and McCurran Brothers, local contracting firm, which has the general contract for the construction, expect that the building will be completed within five or six weeks.

A Cincinnati firm has the steel work in charge and the contract for the tin roof and a canopy across the front of the building has been let to a Dayton concern. Other contracts are in the process of being awarded.

DODGE CHICK DISEASE. Get the chicks out of the mud. Long-continued sloppy weather, muddy runs and yards, furnish ideal conditions for the parasite which causes the disease coccidiosis, as well as making things unpleasant around the broader houses for the owners who take care of the flocks.

"The brooder houses ought to be moved to grass sod," says E. L. Dakan, head of the poultry department of the Ohio State University. "Even if the chicks are moved only fifty feet, from bare, muddy soil to grass, they will miss a lot of the infestation of parasites which have made their homes in the old runs where the grass has been destroyed."

Coccidiosis or white diarrhea parasite from the activities of a parasite which will infest the soil where chickens have been kept, for a year or more. Sanitary measures which include moving the flocks away from the infested soil, have been found more satisfactory control measures than trying to treat the disease with medicine after it has started in a flock. Under the conditions which have existed for a month or more, the parasites have been flourishing. For late chicks which are showing signs of rickets because it has been impossible, on account of weather conditions, to get them outdoors as much as they should have been, should have their cod liver oil ration increased to 2 percent of their feed, Dakan says, in order to counteract the lack of sunlight.

COMFORT STATION IS NOW COMPLETED. Announcement was made Tuesday that the comfort station which has been under construction in Shawnee Park adjacent to Cox Memorial Athletic Field and along the park drive, is now completed and ready for use.

Erection of the building was made possible through funds raised by a committee of women in charge of the community picnic last fall and additional money expected to be obtained by a similar picnic to be held in Shawnee Park the Fourth of July, sponsored by the same committee.

John A. North, local plumber, donated the labor for installing the fixtures and also sold the fixtures at cost. Preliminary plumbing work was also done free of charge by Asa T. Price.

John F. Loyd, local contractor, had the contract for erecting the building, which is constructed of brick and concrete.

HELD TO GRAND JURY FOR DESTRUCTION OF PROPERTY HERE. Charged in separate affidavits with injuring and maliciously destroying private property, Robert Craig, 22, Roger St., and John Clark, 19, S. Columbus St., were bound over to the grand jury by R. O. Copey, justice of the peace, following preliminary hearings Monday. The pair pleaded not guilty.

Both youths were released when they each put up $300 bond. The affidavits accused each boy of destroying property valued at $25 after breaking into a summer cottage owned by Julia Frazee, 2403 Little Miami River just west of Kil Kare Park pavilion, June 4.

About a week ago six boys were taken into custody by the Montgomery and Greene County sheriff's offices.

Affidavits were filed with Magistrate Copey accusing the sextet of breaking into the cottage on three different occasions during June.

At the preliminary hearing Monday, all six affidavits were dismissed and the two new affidavits were sworn out by the Dayton woman against Craig and Clark.

The other boys under arrest were John Osman, 23, his brother, Harry, 25, William LaFong, 24, all of Belmont, and Russell Barr, 17, Xenia. LaFong proved his innocence as did the Osman brothers.

Since Barr was a minor his case was transferred to the Juvenile division of Probate Court. The boy was later released following an informal hearing.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

LENDING TO GOD

He that hath pity upon the poor lendeth unto the Lord; and that which he hath given will he pay him again.—Prov. 19:17.

HOOVER AND SMITH

Al Smith and Herbert Hoover, outside of blue eyes, and a mutual fondness for fishing, differ on every count. In background, education, food tastes, manners and amusements their records are diametrically opposed.

Intimate sidelights on the conflicting tastes of the two leading presidential candidates are revealed by Frazier Hunt, political expert.

"Governor Smith is an old-fashioned gentleman, who still wears suspenders and long underwear, winter and summer, while Hoover sticks to B. V. D.'s and a belt," he reports, indicating the far-reaching differences between the two popular figures.

Governor Smith is a "natty dresser" who goes in for complete ensembles on all occasions. When he comes out in brown he is all brown from his derby to his shoes. He never wears a dress suit if he can help it. Hoover, for more than twenty-five years, has worn only double-breasted blue suits and dresses for dinner every night except Sunday.

The Governor is noted for his boisterously seasoned, rip-roaring stories. Even his enemies admit freely that as a raconteur he is in a class by himself. Hoover, on the other hand, is noted for brilliant talk of people and events in far-flung corners of the earth. "He talks as Kipling writes," his friends say.

Smith reads few books and depends largely upon personal contacts for his knowledge of men and affairs. Hoover reads constantly with a preference for philosophy and detective stories. Smith's personal fortune is estimated at $150,000; Hoover is reputed to be a millionaire.

"They were both poor boys, born within eighteen months of each other but a thousand miles apart" comments a writer in McClure's. "Governor Smith first saw light in an Irish-Catholic tenement district of East Side New York; Hoover's family lived in a Quaker settlement in Iowa. While 'Al' earned his F. F. M. degree in the Fulton Fish Market and learned the ways of Tammany hall, Hoover worked his way through Leeland Stanford and prepared for his spectacular career as an international engineer."

During their thirties, Smith began his long term of service as New York State Assemblyman while Hoover made a reputation and a million dollars as one of the world's ablest mining engineers. During their early forties, Hoover was called the 'savior' of Belgium and Smith was leader of the Democratic minority in the lower house of the New York State Legislature. Now, in the fifties, Hoover, man of the world, has turned politician; and Smith, politician, has turned more man of the world.

Anyway it's a safe prediction that the next President of the United States will be a self-made man.

INTEREST IN NEWS

Mr. Duncan-Clark, of the editorial staff of the Chicago Post, recently remarked in an address to a Baptist convention, that public opinion seems to have a cynical contempt for the spiritual values of life, and that people are supposed to be more interested in news of a destructive character, rather than in constructive events that are less dramatic. He thought that newspaper writers should show the interest value of constructive news.

In cities like this the people do not demand that their newspapers be full of crime and scandal. They are interested in the constructive news of which this editor speaks, and they want to know what is being done to make better communities. They want to know about the things that build up the community, quite as much as about the things that destroy it.

A lot of people, who formerly lost money in boom town speculation, are now getting ready to lose some more money in stocks.

TWELVE GREAT

At least once a year somebody of note tries to pick the ten or twelve greatest living persons in the world. And of course nobody can really do that. Ten distinguished scholars recently voted on the "great twelve" and here are their selections: Edison, Mussolini, Einstein, Shaw, Ford, Paderewski, Kipling, Mme. Curie, Clemenceau, Jane Addams, Orville Wright, Marconi.

What do you think?

If the truth could only be brought to light there are men and women in obscurity who are just as great.

POSSIBILITIES

Every human soul has possibilities of greatness. There is a certain creative force in every man and woman. It comes from the great source of power by which the universe and all the universes were created. The tragedy is the neglect of the cultivation of these seeds of greatness.

HE KNOWS

Alfred P. Sloan, head of the General Motors, takes occasion to say that he finds newspaper advertising "particularly helpful from the standpoint of direct sales appeal."

Mr. Sloan knows that his great business has been built largely by the power of advertising—intelligent and thoughtful advertising. It is not strange that this leader among business men, looking over the field and looking over results, finds newspaper advertising reaches the spot. More and more the heads of large business concerns have come to this conclusion.

The Diary of a New Yorker

By CLARK KINNAIRD

NEW YORK, July 3. — A handsome Russian, who in czarist days was a military attaché at embassies of his country in European capitals, is supporting his social career in New York as a professional blood giver. He gets $100 a quart for his life fluid.

At a smart affair the other evening he received a phone call and rushed to his hostess with apologies. "A very dear friend has been taken to the hospital." He is used to making such excuses, for he is subject to calls at any time, and in the fashionable circle in which he moves, with hopes of obtaining a rich wife, there is the impression he is an adviser on Russian affairs to a Wall Street concern.

He appeared at the hospital in evening attire and went through the operation nonchalantly. When it was over, and the doctor was examining him, the Russian casually asked the patient's name. He likes to keep a record of those whose blood is mixed with his. Not always, however, do hospitals supply this information.

"The patient is Miss," said the doctor, giving a name in the Social Register.

The blood-giver was startled. "Good lord! I spent half of last week's blood money for orchids for her."

After refusing to accept his usual blood-giving fee, the Russian exacted a promise from the physician that the young woman would never learn his name. "Your blood saved her life," the doctor told him.

"I'd die of shame if she knew I did this for a living," was the response.

The doctor who told me this didn't think it was suitable for publication, "because nobody will believe it." But truth is stranger than fiction.

Felix Sheopolish, most celebrated cat in New York, is dead. Ironically, his passing went unchronicled in the metropolitan newspapers.

For 10 years Felix was master of Zoe Beckley's house in West Tenth street. Miss Beckley, noted writer, is hostess of a salon that at one time or another attracts all the celebrities. Felix discovered that not only may a cat look at a queen, but a cat may sit in a queen's lap. For he knew Queen Marie of Rumania, whom Zoe Beckley visited in Bucharest and collaborated with in the preparation of stories.

When a newcomer appeared at the Buckley salon, Felix either displayed his disapproval by leaving the room or by immediately recognizing the visitor as a comrade and climbing the newcomer's leg to the lap for a snooze. He was constant in his likes and dislikes. He never made up with persons he ignored on a first meeting.

The scion of a noted family sent his fiancée, sailing for Europe, a bon voyage basket that cost $1,000. It contained, besides the usual candy, fruit and books, a fluffy white poodle tied with silk ribbons and nestling in silk and fur.

The basket, it is said, was a work of art, was trimmed with antique embroidery and lace. A shop specializing in bon voyage gifts, puts up a box of candies priced at $100 and sells many of them.

Making Dishonesty Difficult

The simplest way to make a man honest is to make it impracticable for him to be dishonest. Years ago there was a lot of trouble due to people whitening off little pieces of gold or silver coin and in that way collecting small quantities of valuable metal. It was impossible to catch anybody in the act, and the practice was a great nuisance. Then someone hit on the plan of milling the edges of coins and having a rule that when this milling was damaged the coin could not be passed. That stopped the trouble instantly. It no longer paid to do it.

The nature of a man's occupation is a help or a handicap, according to the amount of supervision it carries with it. A man working in the branch office of a big company is probably more likely to go wrong than if he were in the main office, directly under observation of others in high authority.

A traveling man may establish for himself a lax code of ethics that he would never have considered if employed in a main office, subject to daily check on his behavior and well systematized restrictions. A jewelry salesman with a large assortment of samples entrusted to his care, selling goods on commission, or a man who travels about collecting money for his firm, is at heart no less honest than anybody else; but his work means a certain amount of temptation—especially if he ever faces a real need for immediate cash.

A mere youth is not as good a risk as an older man, for the reason that his character is still unformed. He has no reputation back of him to indicate what his future behavior will be. On the other hand, a man who has been in a position of trust and responsibility for two or three years, with a perfect record, may have been there just long enough to have won everybody's confidence and thus make defection comparatively easy. A surety company would rather guarantee the honesty of a man who has an unblemished record for a somewhat longer period. The man who plods along on a safe and sane basis for ten years without any sign of skittishness is pretty good.

Some years ago an Italian psychologist declared that a certain age—from thirty-eight to forty-four, I think it was—men were more likely to be dishonest than at any other time. Surety company experts take little stock in this theory. About the only reason a man aged thirty-eight might be more likely to steal than a one twenty-eight is because of greater responsibility and greater demands upon him.

How to Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

Beauty Parallels

Norway cannot boast fairer blondes than our own Minnesota and Wisconsin, for in the middle west there are today women as true to the heroic proportions of Brunhilde as could ever be produced in that glorious land of the Vikings. England, Scotland, and Italy have colonized, not in any given spot, but in the whole wide country, with faithful sons bringing the heritage of their far off countries into a new one, and mating the traditions of an old world with the ambition and progress of a new.

There is no country in the wide world that has not mingled its blood with the heroic stream of the pioneer in our own. Nor is it alone in race that there are such parallels between America and the continent. All the climatic conditions of the world are reproduced in this vast country. And so are all the skin conditions! The dry skin of the English beauty will be found along our coast. The young women of Maryland, Virginia, the New England states and California all have fair dry skins, delicate in texture, exquisite in beauty, and swift to show the early advance of approaching age.

Florida, Texas and the surrounding areas are very similar to Italy in temperature, climate and complexion. Palm Beach has frequently been called the American Riviera, and its weather conditions are much the same.

There is this difference, however. In our southern states, the oily skin is somewhat rare. In fact, all through the country I have found that there are thousands, perhaps millions of women, who are troubled with this condition.

We have no Paris, but the Parisian desire for chic is universal. American women of every section have learned the importance of preserving their youthful complexion through the triumvirate of beauty laws. First, cleanliness; second, stimulation, and third, toning.

Beauty is susceptible to inherited racial characteristics. Those of you who have Italian blood are wise to remember that your forefathers your feminine ancestors have aged long before their time. Counteract this inherent tendency. Begin in your earliest youth to build your beauty for the future.

"I have a boy of 11 years who has been suffering bilious spells. Our doctor says he will probably have sick headaches all his life, and that's all the satisfaction I get. He used to be constipated, but he is better now, so that can't be the whole trouble."

"MRS. P."

I'm afraid your doctor has not kept up with the modern advances of medicine, Mrs. P. It's all nonsense that any one must have sick headaches all his life. Be careful never to repeat the doctor's remark before your son. Children's ailments should be discussed before them only to the extent that it is necessary to have them corrected. Children love the limelight and want to be the star actors; the thought of sick headaches, weak bladders, etc., takes a vivid grip on their imaginations and makes them feel they are especially favored in some way.

I can remember in my own childhood, "weak" was my star role, and I fear that was not infrequently I had earache—in my mind only—many times when I craved extra attention.

There is some cause for your boy's headaches. Bad tonsils and teeth, that need attention, indigestion, and many other things may cause them. He needs a complete physical examination by a modern, conscientious physician, preferably a children's specialist, Mrs. P. We have a list of books on the care and feeding of children which you should also have. The column rules for obtaining material we offer in the column are to enclose two cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope, for all articles except the reducing and gaining pamphlet, for which ten cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope are required.

Almond Torte Soffee

Today's Recipes

Complexion Salad — One cup grated raw carrots, one cup soaked shredded pineapple, two tablespoons sugar, one package lemon gelatin, one cup boiling water, one cup pineapple juice or cold water. Boil one cup water and add to gelatin. Add cold pineapple juice and sugar. Partly cool and add fruit and carrot. Serve with boiled salad dressing or mayonnaise.

Macaroni Loaf — One cup cooked macaroni, half cup bread crumbs, one cup milk, one tablespoon chopped pimento, one tablespoon chopped green pepper, one cup grated cheese or three-fourths cup cooked meat, one-fourth cup butter, one teaspoon salt, three eggs. Add scalded milk to bread crumbs, butter, chopped vegetables, macaroni and cheese, and lastly, the well-beaten eggs. Mix well. Put in a pan lined with oiled paper. Set pan in a dish of hot water and bake three quarters of an hour in a moderate oven. Serve with or without a tomato or mushroom sauce.

Almond Torte — One-half cup butter, one-half cup sugar, four egg yolks, one cup flour, two tablespoons baking powder, one-fourth teaspoon salt, five tablespoons milk, one teaspoon vanilla. Cream butter and sugar well, and beat beaten yolks into the creamed mixture. Sift baking powder, salt and flour together and add alternately with the milk to the first mixture. Add vanilla. Place batter in two small layer cake pans and cover egg whites, three-fourths cup sugar and one teaspoon almond extract.

Do not let the meringue come up to the sides of pan. Leave half an inch to sides of pan as the meringue spreads while baking. Cover meringue with blanched almonds, split. Bake 20 to 25 minutes in moderate oven. Serve with whipped cream between layers. This may also be served with strawberries or ice cream between layers.

Corn Oysters

(Mrs. Mary Morton's Daily Tested Recipe)
Scrub and press pulp from ears of corn, and to every pint of pulp allow two eggs, two heaping tablespoons flour, one-half teaspoon salt, dash of cayenne and a dash of black pepper. Beat eggs separately, add yolks first, and then whites, to corn, mixing gently. Add salt, pepper and flour. Mix again. Put two tablespoons butter in frying pan, when hot drop the mixture by spoonfuls into it. Brown on both sides.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

HOUSTON, Tex., July 3. — The liquor situation at the Democratic convention has been kept well in hand—the hands of the hotel bell hops.

These gentry served early notice on all arrivals that they had plenty of good stuff and everything would be lovely if purchases were made exclusively from them at their prices, but woe betide the individual whom they caught trying to smuggle a drop in from the outside—much as they'd regret it, a growing sense of duty would compel them immediately to turn up such offenders.

Despite its amazing impudence, this information was conveyed with a firmness and an air of authority that bespoke thorough organization and the ability and determination to fulfill both promise and threat.

Whoever chooses to believe that higher-ups were ignorant of either is welcome to do so. I don't.

Sad as it is to relate, Houston has shown a disposition to gouge its visitors, which was entirely lacking in Kansas City.

Of course the responsible class of Houstonians hasn't shared it, but it must have been obvious even to this class that the underlings were all set for a big clean-up at the delegates' expense, and the responsible folk evidently shut their eyes and let the camp followers go ahead.

It doesn't leave a convention sojourner with as good a taste in his mouth as the end of the K. C. affair did.

An admirer of General John A. Lejeune of the Marine corps dragged me out of bed the other morning with a long distance telephone call clear from New York to ask whether I knew anything he could do in aid of a vice presidential boom which was just being inflated in the general interest.

Considering how late in the day it started, and how little political acquaintance the general has, it turned out a pretty creditable boom at that. There was good deal of talk about Lejeune launched earlier, it might have been formidable.

The vice presidential nomination is a nice little compliment to anybody but a senator.

For a senator it's a demotion, except on the long chance that the president dies in office. The senator loses his vote and his voice, and becomes a political nonentity. If he accepts, he simply sacrifices himself in the hope of strengthening his party's ticket.

Charley Curtis' case was a little different. He probably regards the job as a kind of honorable retirement.

But Senator Robinson of Arkansas, who was considered the best Democratic vice presidential possibility when he arrived in Houston, isn't ready to retire. He wasn't enthusiastic, and it undoubtedly was genuine.

Old convention goers tell me women are taking three as prominent a part as in any similar gathering before, except at Kansas City, and a considerably more prominent one than there.

Experts attribute it to the warmth of the wet and dry fight here, which beats K. C. hollow. The politicians are as afraid of the woman's vote as death. They still regard it as an unknown quantity, and fear the unknown like most of us.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

WHY HURRY?

All you little girls of 16 and 17 listen to me. Don't you realize that in spite of the growing love of divorce, the majority of marriages still are for life, and life is long? Don't you realize that the very best part of your girlhood is before you, and that some day, if you marry now, you are going to feel cheated out of it? And it is hardly fair to the love you have, or to the children you may have, to give them a young, inexperienced girl, really only half educated, for a wife and mother. I suppose this little preaching will do no good, but if you could see the many letters I get from schoolgirls who are so much in love and are planning to be married at once, you would excuse it.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I have been a silent reader of your column for a long time, and I believe you could help me solve my problem. I'm a country girl of 19. I've a very nice boy friend. He is three years my senior. He says he loves me more than any girl he ever went with, and I'm sure I love him very dearly. We are engaged to be married this fall, but sometimes I feel as though I'm not ready to get married yet. Don't you think I've got to wait a while? Now, Mrs. Lee, do you think I should go ahead? Would I be cheating my friend by doing so?"

"BROWN EYES." Don't marry anyone until you are good and ready. Brown eyes. It is much fairer to your friend to wait until you are ready, and you will be a much more contented and happy wife if you don't marry too early.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I read your column every day and think your advice very practical. I am in love with a boy, fifteen years my senior. I am 16 years of age. I lack one year of finishing my high school career. I wish to ask your advice about my problem.

"I think that my boy friend loves me. He goes with another girl about once every week or two, and he is with me three or four times a week. He says that he would like us to go with some one else a little to be sure whether I love him or not. We are engaged to be married when I finish school. He also thinks it best for me to go with some one else because he wants me to have a good time while I am in school. Does he really love me?"

"WILLIE IS WAITING." He sounds so sensible. Willie, that I can hardly believe he is really in love. However, a thing says, for it is far from sure that a little girl in her last year of high school is seriously in love with anyone. Better both of you go with other people and have a good time and put thoughts of marriage out of your mind for present. Although, I suppose this is too much to ask.

COCK OF THE ROCK

At this point in his story, Bobolink's eyes fairly glittered with excitement. "As wife finished speaking, a creature stepped from behind the shadow of the rocks and rushed straight at us, and we thought the stranger intended to stamp on us. We noticed its feet, and they were strong and cruel looking, and we were just taking to our wings when another voice gave a shrill cry, and the stranger stopped short in its tracks. From out of the dimness appeared a second figure."

"There, there, wife. Don't do anything in a hurry that you will be sorry for afterward," advised the newcomer. "Wait and find out if the visitors are not telling the truth. This country is an easy one to be lost in. You know yourself that only the natives can find their way about. Anyhow, it seems to me that even if the little ones intended to be unfriendly, they are too tiny to do any damage."

"The owner of the voice came slowly toward us, and we were so amazed at what we saw that we forgot to be afraid. The creature was as large as a barnyard pigeon and more beautiful than any one we had yet seen. We knew that it was some kind of a bird both because of the eggs that evidently belonged to it and because it was covered with feathers. These feathers were almost the exact color of the rind of a ripe pumpkin except those upon the tips of the wings and tail—some of these were jet black and some were brown. But it was at the fellow's head we looked the longest. There the feathers stood straight up and reached from his beak to the back of his neck, and they were as bright orange as the rest of his coat.

"For goodness sake, who are you?" gaped wife. "And what are you wearing on the top of your head?"

fellow would be angry at her being so inquisitive. But on contrary her curiosity seemed please him.

"That is my crest, I am wearing it, though; it just that way. I take it that you never seen anyone like me before," remarked he. "Well to be sure, that is not to be wondered at. There are not many of our family left. We are well on the way toward being the last of our race. Wise as we are, the poisoned arrows of the huntsmen are too much for us. We keep our eyes open every minute we are awake and never trust ourselves to the sunlit. Only after sunset and just before the sunrise do we venture from the rocks to feed. Yet our lives are in peril then from the Hunting Humans. Our plumage brings a high price in market, I am told. My fan must be worth a very great deal. And he proudly shook his crest. Evidently the big fellow was a bit conceited.

"I don't wonder at that," I exclaimed. "It is very, very beautiful."

"Thanks," replied the fellow. "I think it is pretty fine myself."

"But who are you?" demanded Mrs. Bobolink. "You have told us everything about yourself but your name. Won't you tell us that?"

"Certainly, strangers, how stupid of me! Pardon me, pray! I am Cock of the Rock!"

CARROLL - BINDERS TAKE TWO GAMES BY ONE-RUN MARGIN

The Carroll-Binder Co., softball team won a double-header in the American League Monday night, nosing out one-run victories over the Kiwanis Club and the league-leading Lang Chevrolet Co. in a pair of seven-inning games at Cox Memorial Athletic Field.

The pair of victories elevated Carroll-Binder to second place in the standing with a record of five victories against two defeats, and dropped the Lang Chevrolet Co. to third place with three games and two losses. The Hudson-Easey nine automatically took possession of first place with two victories and one setback, but must defeat the Rotary Club Tuesday night in order to retain its hold on the top rung.

In the first half of the twin bill, Carroll-Binder took the Kiwanis in a fighting mood and had an uphill battle from the start. Trailing by a score of 11 to 1 when the first half of the fourth inning had been complete, a home run by Murrell with the bases full tied the score in the sixth and Pitcher Neville for Carroll-Binder won his own game in the last of the ninth with a single, which scored Leachy, who had walked.

Neville and Randall formed the battery for the winners in the opening game with Neville pitching and Hult catching for Kiwanis. The Ki-

FINAL LICENSE EQUALS RECORD

Issuance of a belated marriage license late last Saturday morning, enabled the month of June to equal the record-breaking year month of December, 1917, in the number of marriage licenses issued in Greene County.

The license granted late Saturday boosted the total number for the month to forty, which equals the record set eleven years ago for one month.

The last license of the month was issued to Monroe L. Block, Cincinnati, O., auditor, and Katharine Marguerite Stiles, 221 Cincinnati Ave., Xenia. The Rev. David Sellers was named as the minister to perform the ceremony.

Troops No. 41, 43 and 45, Boy Scouts of America, will hold a combined outdoor meeting in the Council Ring near the Scout cabin Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock to complete plans for participation in the water sports which will be held in Shawnee Park Wednesday in connection with the community Fourth of July celebration.

Each Scout is asked to bring a piece of wood for the campfire. The Scout cabin is being given a coat of paint and any Scout volunteers who are willing to help in this work should bring a brush.

Xenia won the first game, 75 to 50; also the second, 62 to 55 and the third 65 to 45; lost the fourth, 67 to 48, and the fifth, 58 to 53 and then won the sixth, 73 to 43.

Brennan was high-scoring of the match with seventy-nine points to his credit, followed by Frame with seventy-seven and Merritt with sixty-two. Emerick obtained fifty-nine points to lead the Miami. The scores:

RUTH GOING GOOD
NEW YORK, July 3.—Despite a lame back and a wrenched shoulder, Babe Ruth is keeping pace with his ambition to hit seventy home runs this year. This big Yankee slugger's first homer of the current campaign, made against Garland Braxton at Washington yesterday, puts him one past the half-way mark of his 1927 record and the Yanks have played only sixty-nine of their 154 games. The Bam is 24 games, 22 days and six homers ahead of his last year's record race.

RED CAST-OFF PUTS FORMER TEAM-MATES IN SECOND SECTION

NEW YORK, July 3.—What a scramble the American League race would be if those Yankees weren't so high! Each of the other seven clubs has a chance for second or third money. Even the tail-end Tigers have a percentage of .400 and are only four games away from a first division berth.

All the teams in both leagues that are in the first division or near it will be in their best behavior today and tomorrow, both players and managers put a lot of faith in the old adage that a team of July—the season's half-way mark—will be there at the end of the year.

The Cubs jumped to third place in the National League and the Reds dropped back into the second division when Artie Neff, Chicago's veteran southpaw held Cincinnati to five hits, winning 8 to 2.

Boston's Hornsby took two extra-inning tilts from the Phillies 4 to 3 in fourteenth innings and 5 to 4 in two innings. Hollingsworth twirled good ball for nine innings in the opener.

The other National League teams did not play.

Garland Braxton, once a Yankee, pitched the Nats to a 4 to 3 win over the Yanks. It was the third defeat of the year for George Pipgras. Joe Judge's two triples did more damage than Babe Ruth's thirty-first homer.

Lefty Grove of the Athletics stymied the Red Sox, 9 to 2, but the Sox tripped up Ruth Walberg in the eighth, 7 to 4. Cobb smacked four hits in the opener. Al Simmons walloped seven hits in eight times at bat.

The White Sox went gunning and snagged two victories from the Browns, 7 to 1 and 9 to 8. Ted Blankenship was a clinch in the opener but the Sox just lasted to win the nightcap.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR JULY 4 CELEBRATION IN SHAWNEE PARK

Shawnee Park will take on the appearance of a county fair, Wednesday, July 4, according to the development of plans for the Greene County Community Picnic.

Booths and tables were being placed in the park Tuesday. The tables will be decorated with flags and flowers and ice cream, pop, candy and other refreshments will be sold at the booths, in charge of various civic organizations.

Something will be doing every minute from 2 to 10 p. m., according to members of the committee in charge. The Xenia Municipal Band will play during the afternoon and evening.

The public wedding, with well known principals, will be performed at 5 o'clock. The bride procession will start from the John G. Baldwin home on Park Drive and the ceremony will take place in a prominent spot in the park.

Alpha Theta Chapter, Delta Theta Sorority, which is co-operating with The Downtown Country Club in making the wedding a success.

Congressman Roy G. Fitzgerald, Dayton, will speak at 8 o'clock. A community "sing" will be held at 7 o'clock and band music will intersperse the program of games, contests and other picnic features during the afternoon and evening.

Families are urged to bring their fireworks to the picnic for the general display.

Contributions for the cafeteria supper, to be served on the grounds, are to be brought to the park during the afternoon. Plans are being made to feed at least 1,000 people. Funds from the picnic will be used to encourage the development of the park.

Anyone having flowers for decorating at the picnic is urged to bring them to the park by noon Wednesday. They are also asked to bring containers for the flowers.

Each person is responsible for his own container. In case of rain, they are to be taken to Central High School.

CROKER AND PETERSON CO. IS SOLD TO PHILADELPHIA FIRM

The Croker and Peterson Co., dealers in poultry and eggs, was sold Monday to Resser and Rabinowitz Inc., Philadelphia, Pa., said to be one of the largest produce concerns in the country.

Ray Croker, partner in the local firm, who announced the sale, will remain in charge of the plant as manager for the Philadelphia concern. He was for many years manager of the Xenia branch of the H. B. Hole Co., dealers in the same business.

Dissolution of the Xenia firm was the result of the death of Lyndal T. Peterson, partner in the enterprise. The firm was formed four months ago and has occupied a building on Washington St. owned by Oliver Belden, and formerly one of the group of buildings The Eavey Packing Co. It was near the building occupied by the Xenia Hatcheries Co., which was destroyed by fire last winter and was damaged in the same fire.

Purchase of the Xenia concern includes only the business and the building will continue to be occupied under lease. The transfer is effective at once and the business will be continued as a branch of the Philadelphia concern without interruption.

Risser and Rabinowitz have operated branches at Urbana, St. Paris, Versailles, Caledonia and other Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky cities for years but have never controlled a plant in this section. The company has the largest poultry dressing plant in the country with a capacity of sixteen carloads, at its Philadelphia headquarters. The Xenia concern, for the present, will ship poultry and eggs and will not handle dressed poultry.

Ackland Center, a little old town in New England, is proud of its beauty and traditions. But the modern world crowds in on its peace and quiet. Finally a notorious roadhouse, Jazzland, is opened by a gang of bootleggers. Liquor flows. Girls of the town are lured there. The editor of the "Weekly Age" is murdered for his editorial attacks. His brother, Homer Pew, takes up the fight. Homer is joined by Stella Bagot, one of the home-town girls, who has made good as a writer in New York. Stella comes to write a story, and remains to fight Jazzland. Homer is beaten up in a mysterious midnight attack. Stella takes charge of the paper and writes scathing editorials. She also tries to trace a telephone call, believing it to come from the murderers. Stella finds her little sister, Martha, has been out on a lark to Jazzland, and has been drinking. She gives her lecture and Martha complains that she is kept at home while Stella has been allowed to go to college and later take up her own life in New York. Stella returns to her room and leaves a note pinned on her door telling her mother to awaken her early the next morning.

Stella has made an appointment to phone Ernie Hallam, a New York admirer, who is staying in Boston. Ernie complains that Stella has forgotten him, but she makes a date to meet him in a little town nearby that night at six-thirty. Er

NEW YORK, July 3.—Personal and confidential: Mary Pickford failed to notify her press department and a photographer wasn't around when she had her curls cut off in New York; so she had to have her bob trimmed, a day later, in Chicago, so that pictures could be taken of her in a barber's chair.

Everybody's wondering how Mae Murray was able to keep her 16-months baby a secret so long. She's Mrs. David Mdivina, you know. She was afraid that the news she was a mother would injure her popularity in romantic roles. Joseph Schildkraut is to have the much sought role of Gaylord Ravenel in Universal's version of "Show Boat."

United Artists has finally announced its plans for the coming season. Mary Pickford will do one comedy-drama in a "grown-up" part. Norma Talmadge will be seen in "The Woman Disputed," which has a Russian setting. Gloria Swanson is scheduled to appear in "The Swamp" with Edmund Lowe as leading man, but Eric Von Stroheim is directing, so it may not be finished until 1935, or thereabouts.

The company will also release a new Dolores Del Rio picture, "Revenge," adapted from Konrad Bercovici's story, "The Bear Tamer's Daughter." Bercovici repudiates it.

Vilma Banky becomes an individual star minus Ronald Colman, in "The Awakening."

In this the Englishman, Walter Butler, makes his debut as leading man. Charlie Chaplin promises a new picture which presently bears the title, "City Lights," and which will have sound effects.

United Artists also will offer a new Douglas Fairbanks picture by Elton Thomas (which is Douglas Fairbanks without a mustache), in which the adventures of the "Three Musketeers" and the "Man in the Iron Mask" are happily jumbled.

D. W. Griffith will show us whether he has anything new in direction to offer, in "The Battle of the Sexes." John Barrymore will be seen in "Tempest" (already shown in New York) and another, with Camille Horn, under Ernest Lubitsch's direction.

Ronald Colman will be revealed as an individual star in an adaptation (mind you, we say adaptation) of Joseph Conrad's "The Rescue."

AIR SPEEDOMETER BEING TESTED BY DAYTON STUDENTS

DAYTON, O., July 3.—Final tests of a speedometer for airplanes are being made at the department of mechanical engineering, Dayton University, it was announced recently. The device is the invention of W. C. Rogers, of San Antonio, Tex., formerly of the U. S. air service.

Further tests will be conducted by the engineers of the air service. Adapted to night flying the device will be of incalculable value for night bombing operations, it is said.

The speedometer records the speed of airplanes, or other aircraft, above ground, or above sea. It includes a moving map which shows the course over which the ship is flying the rate of speed also.

The inventor claims that with this device a pilot can not become lost in fog banks, in darkness or in clouds. The instrument is so refined that it will indicate the drift, if any, due to winds and will also show whether a plane is standing still or going forward in case of a severe head wind.

Roger submitted his device to National Advisory committee for Aeronautics at Washington, which is said to have been favorably impressed with the idea.

The inventor claims that many of the oceanic disasters of the last two years would not have occurred had his instrument been aboard those planes which went down and never were heard of again.

WILL RIDE FALLS IN RUBBER BALL

AKRON, O., July 3.—Riding the Niagara Falls in a rubber ball is being planned by Jean A. Lussier, Springfield, Mass., a former parachute jumper and motor-cycle racer. The ball will weigh 600 pounds and will be eight feet in diameter, it is said.

Lussier after planning for the stunt for more than a year is in Akron negotiating with a rubber company for the construction of his unique sphere to be completed July 4. He expects to "Bowl over the falls," in a somewhat different manner than that used by the four previous successful navigators of the trip.

The Massachusetts man intends to ride in the ball in an airplane which will drop him in the river above the American Falls.

The ball is weighted down in order to allow the rider to sit up during his trip, according to Lussier. The rubber sphere will have thirty-two air compartments, so it will float. It will be covered with leather like a football, and breathing will be through four air lines. In case these fail an oxygen tank will keep him from suffocating, Lussier says.

HOOVERS ADJUST THEMSELVES

Candidate And His Wife Find Themselves In Glare Of Spotlight

—By A. J. Scott, specially posed for Central Press.

Herbert Hoover at his desk.

By ALEXANDER C. HERMAN
Staff Writer for Central Press and
Gazette

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 3.—With thousands of words already written about them, and millions more to come before election day, the Hoovers are gracefully adjusting themselves to the click-click of pitiless publicity.

It may be tough going. The members of the household realize it. But what can they do?

They are not publicity seekers. Rather would they be left alone in the quiet of their charming street home. But cameras will click, pencils will scratch and reporters will buzz.

And in the clicking, and scratching and buzzing distortions will creep in.

For instance: Legend has it (young legend) that Tut, police dog pet of the Hoover menage, gets his master's newspaper as it is delivered, and brings it to his room. He carries it there all right, but no longer is he allowed to get it from the delivery boys.

"Tut," explains Herbert Hoover, Jr., "began the trick by picking up the paper at the front door. Then he started picking it up at the walk. Impatient with that, he would catch it as the boys threw it from their bicycles. Finally, he began jumping at the boys, knocking them off their wheels."

"We knew nothing about this until one of the newspaper offices phoned about the high mortality of delivery boys on the route. Tut's activities were curtailed at once."

And a favorite story was spoiled a bit. The dog is a classy animal, demanding formal introduction to one of the Hoovers before recognizing a visitor. His jack of recognition isn't registered passively. Fortunate for this reporter, young Hoover was at hand when Tut was being interviewed.

Tut was one of Hoover's first supporters. One day when the secretary wasn't feeling well, and remained in bed, the dog sensed that something was wrong, and stood guard over his master. He had to be locked up before he allowed even the doctor to come in.

Writers who stress the charm of the Hoover home are right. With its garden, quiet porch, trees, birds and little pond of gold fish, it is one of the most charming residences in all Washington. If the walls hang diplomas and testimonials awarded the Hoovers. "That's where we go upstairs by degrees," wise-cracked one of the sons.

But it is not only here that Hoover feels most at home. Out in California there's Bohemian Grove—some 3,300 acres of red woods and wilderness, where the secretaries love to go camping.

He built an old-fashioned '49 miner's camp there in a blind canyon, off the beaten track. Together with Dr. Lyman Wilbur, of Leland Stanford and other old friends, he loves to pitch in and live the hardy life of his engineering days.

He likes to swing a pick and shovel, flattening the rough spots, so that his friends can have a "circle" where they can sit, smoke and chat. There he takes a flat tin, and fries eggs better than any other camper. And the coffee he makes is renowned.

If the stress of the campaign keeps him from visiting the camp this summer, friends say it will be too bad. For in this outdoor play Hoover gets his greatest relaxation.

In his earlier days, when he was able to take active part in Boy Scout work, Hoover used to revel in building dams for the youngsters. Often, a side-kick tells me, he would wade into mud up to his waist just to build a dam and make a pond.

But Mrs. Hoover never caught him at it in Bohemian Grove. Women aren't allowed there.

One other side-light: Hoover now wears a double-breasted suit other than his famous blue one. He wears a gray one, too. And even tried wearing a dashing brown suit a few days this season.

When it gets warm he likes to wear white-striped flannels. And always during the summer he steps around in white canvas shoes.

SKELETON FOUND
ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 3.—A skeleton found on Brown's Island in the Ohio River above here recently by prohibition raiders last summer, according to one theory of the identity of the dead man. Parts of a blue shirt and coat, sixty-one cents and a pen-knife were found near the bones.

I'll Tell The World

In spite of all your enthusiasm over a new salad oil or shoe or radio battery, you cannot possibly pass on the good news to more than a few people. You can't really "tell the world."

The manufacturer himself is in the same fix. He can't tell the world. His salesmen can't. His dealers can't. And the world ought to be told. It wants to know. It wants to know what's new, what's not only good but better than the best; or cheaper; or more durable; or more useful; or just plain more fun.

Advertising "tells the world" today. Back of every advertisement is somebody, perhaps a whole group of somebodies, full of enthusiasm just as you are when you discover something that makes things easier or better for you. They are telling just as many people as they can reach in the world in person. But that is only a tiny fraction of those they speak to in advertising.

Advertisements are truly personal things to the people who write them. And they can be exceedingly personal for you, too, for they mean better food, better clothing, increased health, a happier home, greater prosperity.
